ADMINISTRATION

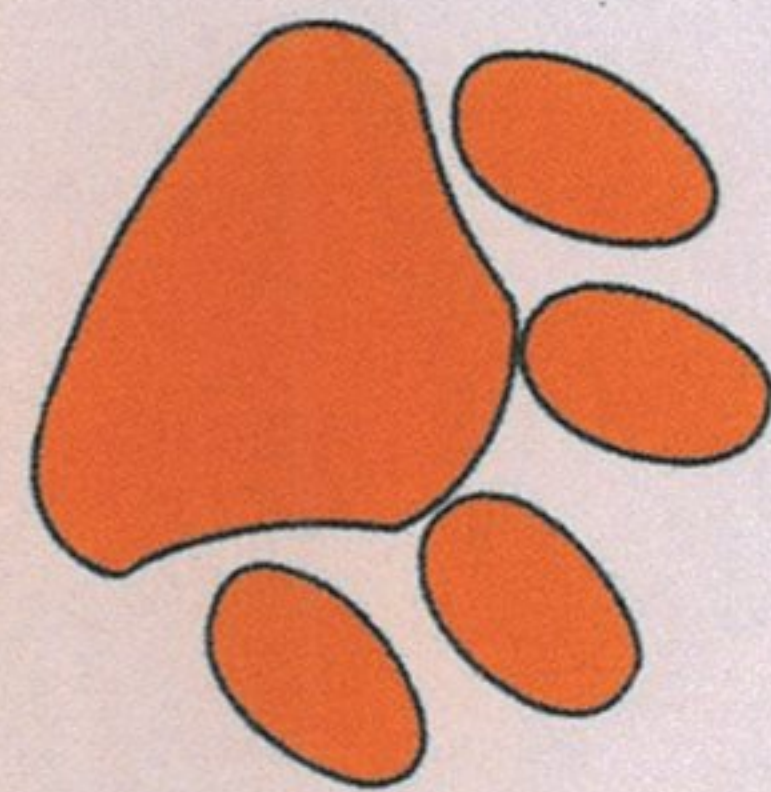

Mr. M. Gala, Ph.D
Principal

It has been almost five years since I joined this awesome school. My learning from our students and the community has been astronomical. This has improved my skills as an equity leader. It is my hope that we will continue to grow together.

I would like to thank the staff at Westview who have responded to our encouragement to be more intentional in supporting student achievement. Staff continue to look to change their practice leading to better student engagement.

At the risk of sounding cliché, parents send us their best children. The culture in our great school has pushed us to imbibe this philosophy which then has allowed us to be more respecting and accepting of parental input on how to support student learning. I have benefitted enormously from having a strong admin team. Thank you so much Joy Kim, Christine Lee, Karen Lorinczi, and Brandon Zoras. Sadly we had to say goodbye to our Vice Principal, Karen Lorinczi, mid year. We wish her the very best at her new school. This transition gave us the opportunity to welcome, Joy Kim, who is also an amazing school leader.

Ms. C. Lee
Vice- Principal

What an incredible year at Westview!

The 2021-2022 school year included wonderful, memorable moments. We had an uplifting, student-led Latin-American Heritage assembly outdoors, and two Honour Roll Assemblies outdoors too. I am so proud of the achievement of Westview students. Our Student Nutrition Program continues to provide healthy, and culturally relevant morning meals and lunch to students. We witnessed the return of sports games this year, and welcomed and cherished the opportunity to cheer on our Westview sports teams. Go Wildcats!

Congratulations to our graduates! We wish you the very best for the next chapter in your lives. Your journey continues. Stay committed, dedicated, persevere, and focus on your goals. Our doors are always open, so come back and visit us.

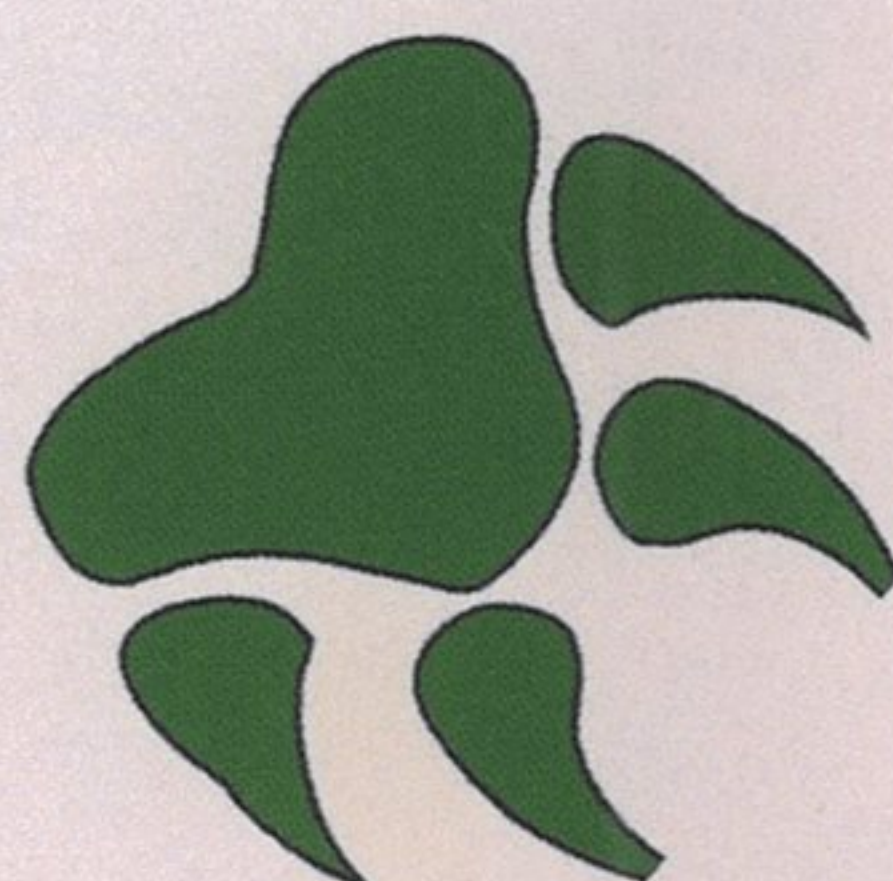

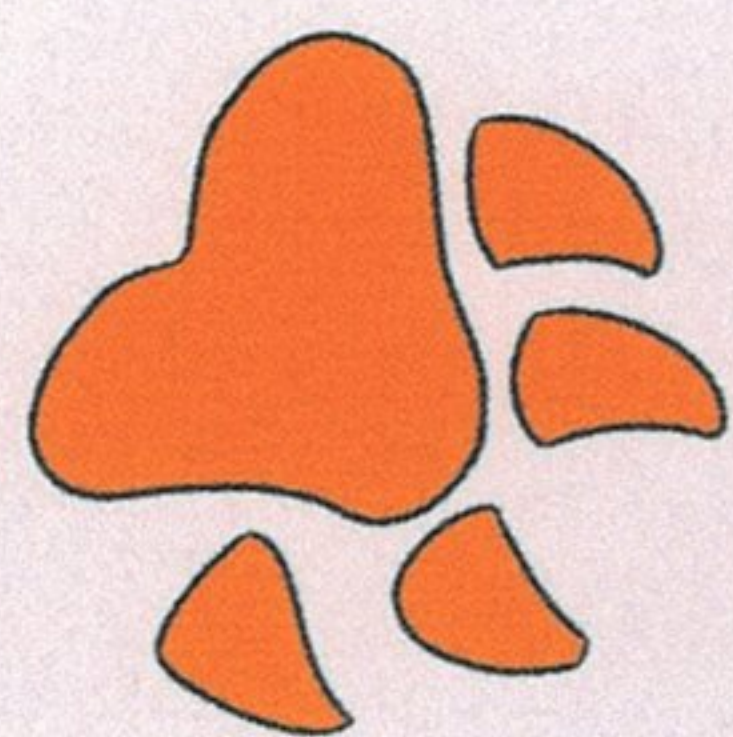

Many thanks to the Yearbook Team, and staff advisor, Ms. Cooke. Your efforts continue to go above and beyond to produce a compilation of lasting memories.

As I write this, we are in the sixth wave of the pandemic. Continue to support, care and love each other. Stay positive and stay safe.

Have a great summer.

Ms. Lee

Thank you, Westview, for another amazing year! Getting out of the pandemic, I am really loving seeing the school spirit come to life through so many clubs, sports, events and learning both in and out of the classroom. Seeing the wonderful community supporting each other and sharing your brilliance has been a shining light through the challenging times we have faced to different degrees. I look forward to supporting you through your years at Westview, learning from you and seeing the amazing places you go from here.

From the moment I stepped into Westview, it has felt like home. In the main office, we are greeted with warmth and in our halls and classrooms, students are full of energy and optimism. Our teaching, support, and SBL staff thanklessly volunteer their time to provide a multitude of opportunities for our students and our school-based safety monitors and caretaking staff work tirelessly to keep our building safe.

As my first semester at Westview comes to an end, I'd like to thank each and every one of you for your endless support. It's not always easy coming in mid-semester as a new administrator but I'm forever grateful for your contribution in making my transition as seamless as possible. I look forward to continuing our learning and growth together and in making new memories with you all next year. Have a splendid summer!

EVENTS

BREAKFAST OF Entrepreneurs

Early in September, students from both CW Jeffreys and Westview met on the school grounds for an inspirational talk by architect and entrepreneur Dee Dee Taylor Eustace and her daughter Rachael. All participants received a a jacket designed by Dee Dee.

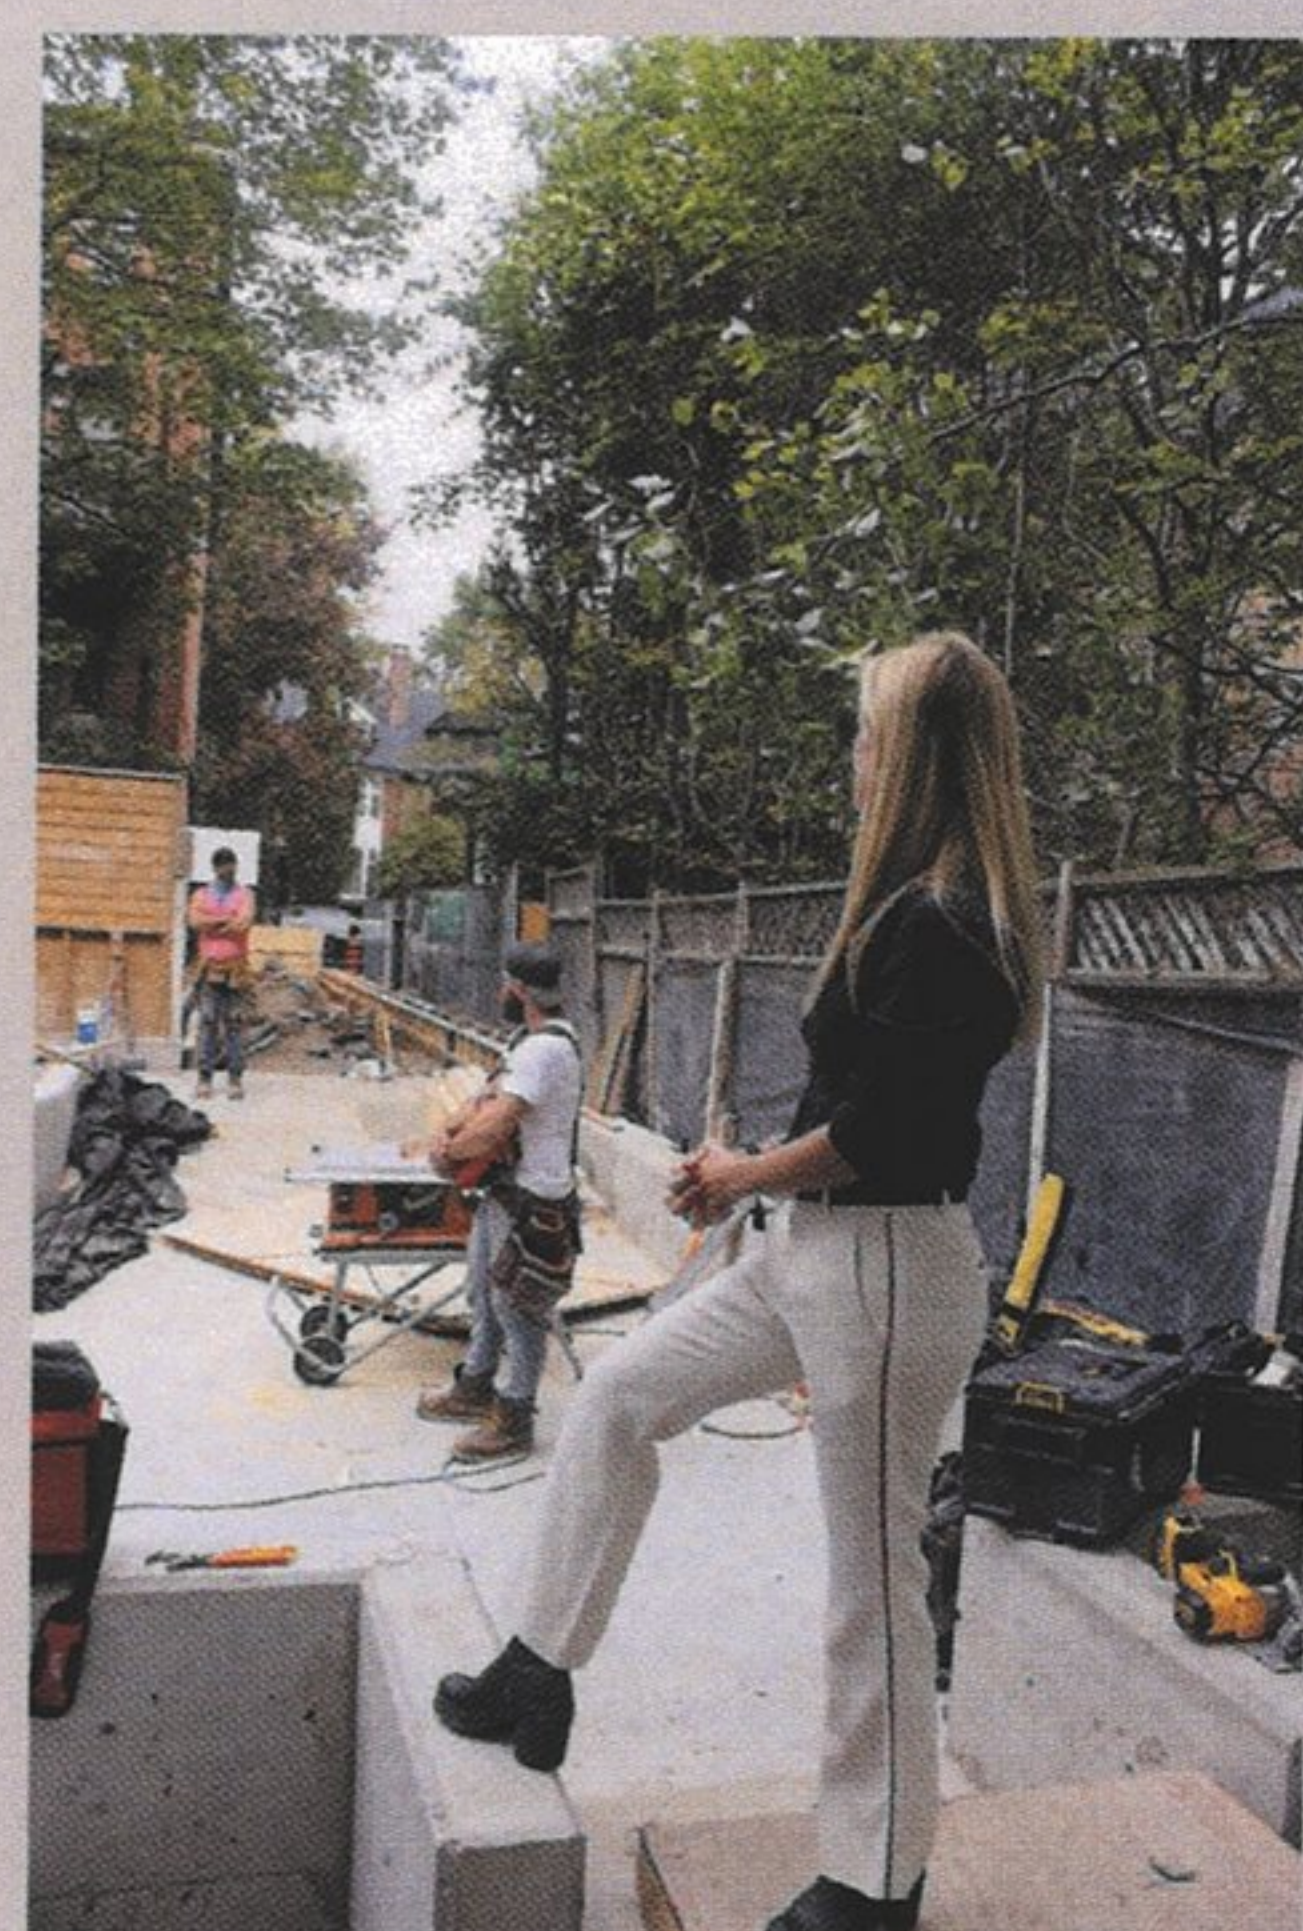

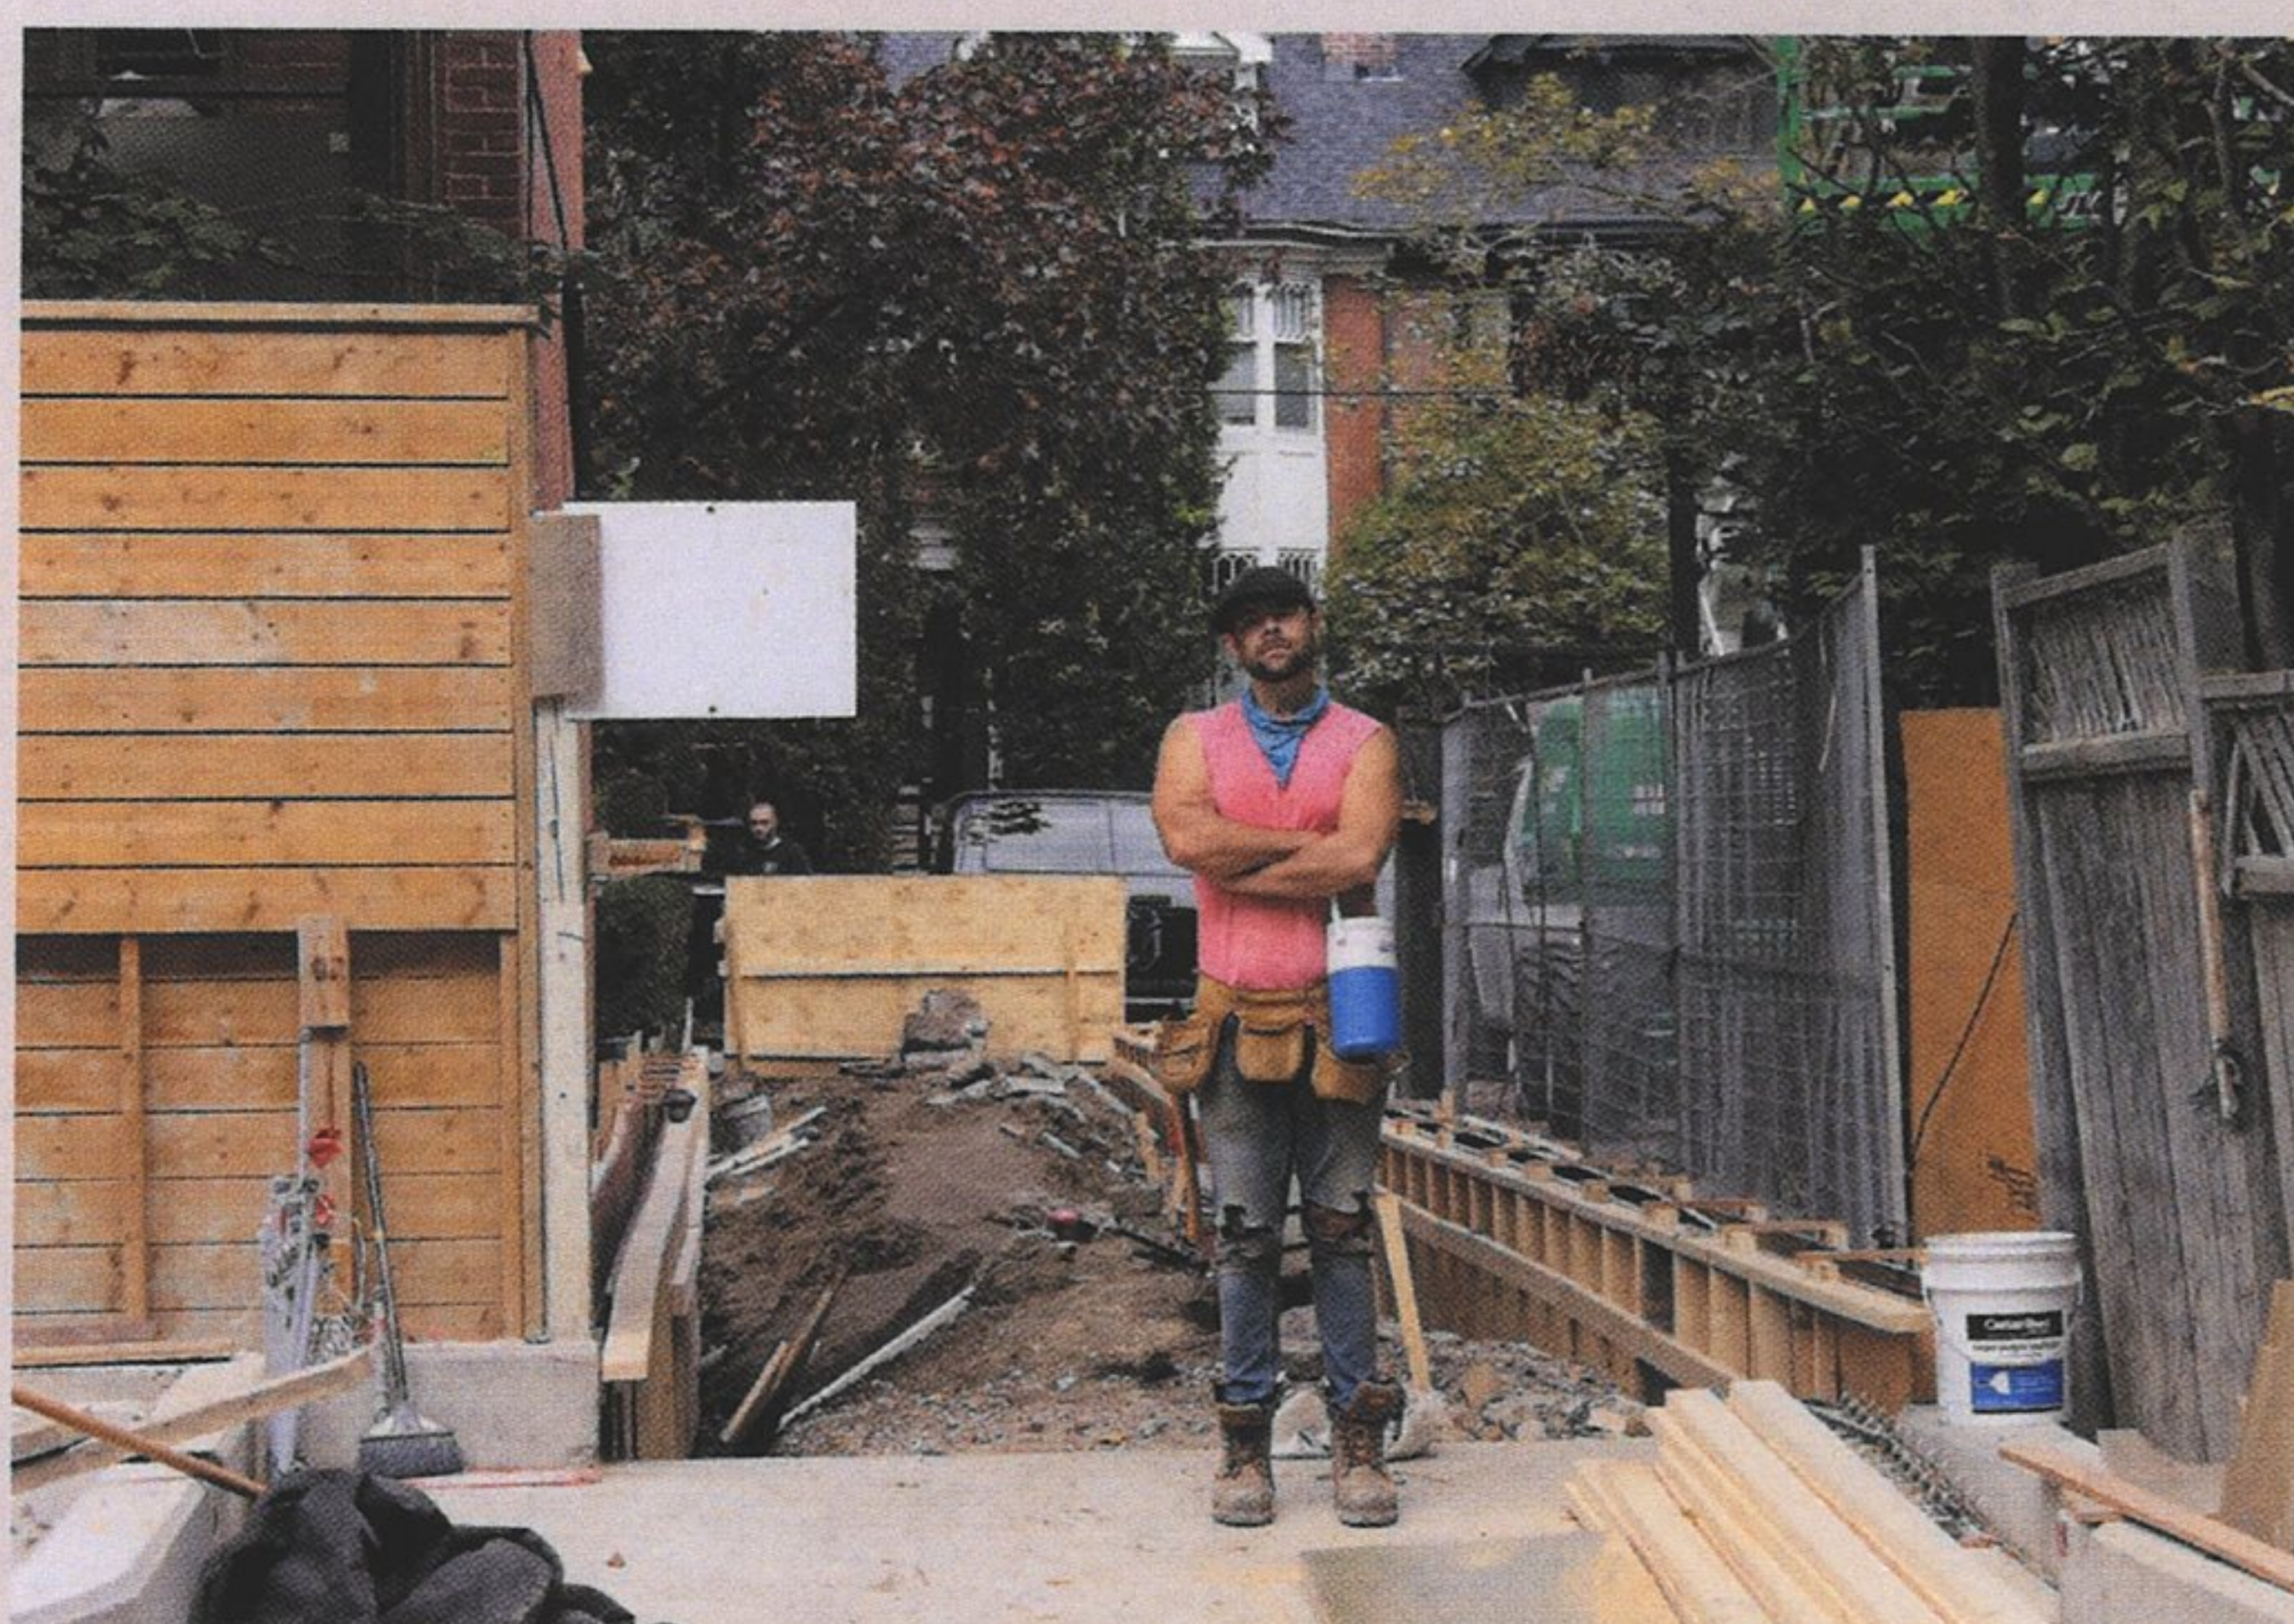

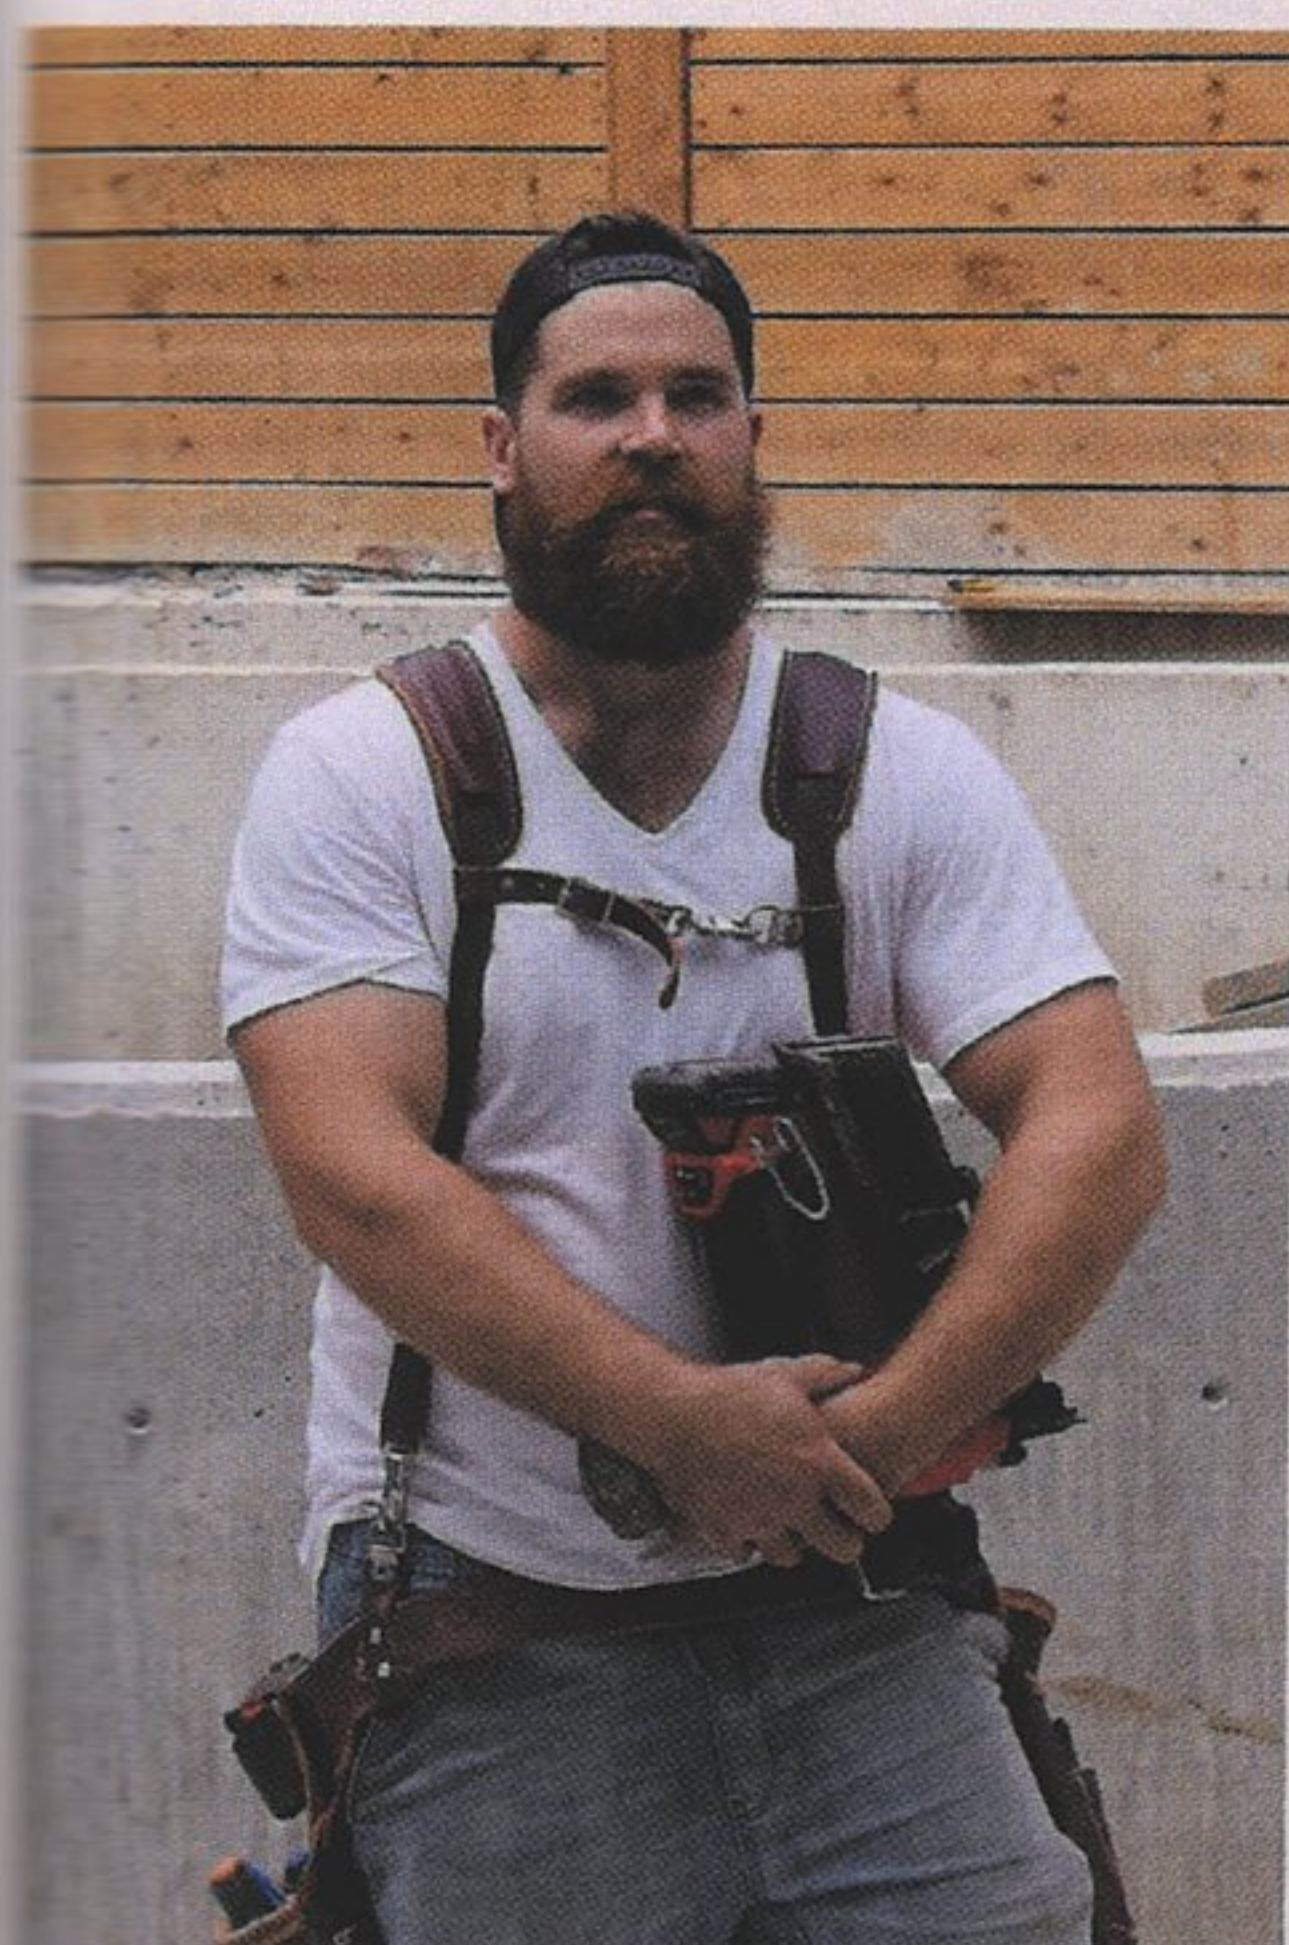

and later, the visit...

IN October, students had the opportunity to visit Dee Dee's office, where students learned about the daily operation of the design and architectural business. It was an inspiring trip for all students encouraging them to consider this pathway for a post-secondary destination.

Dee Dee's company Taylor Hannah Architect has offered to establish a $20,000.00 scholarship over the next four years, a partnership that will support students in their future choices.

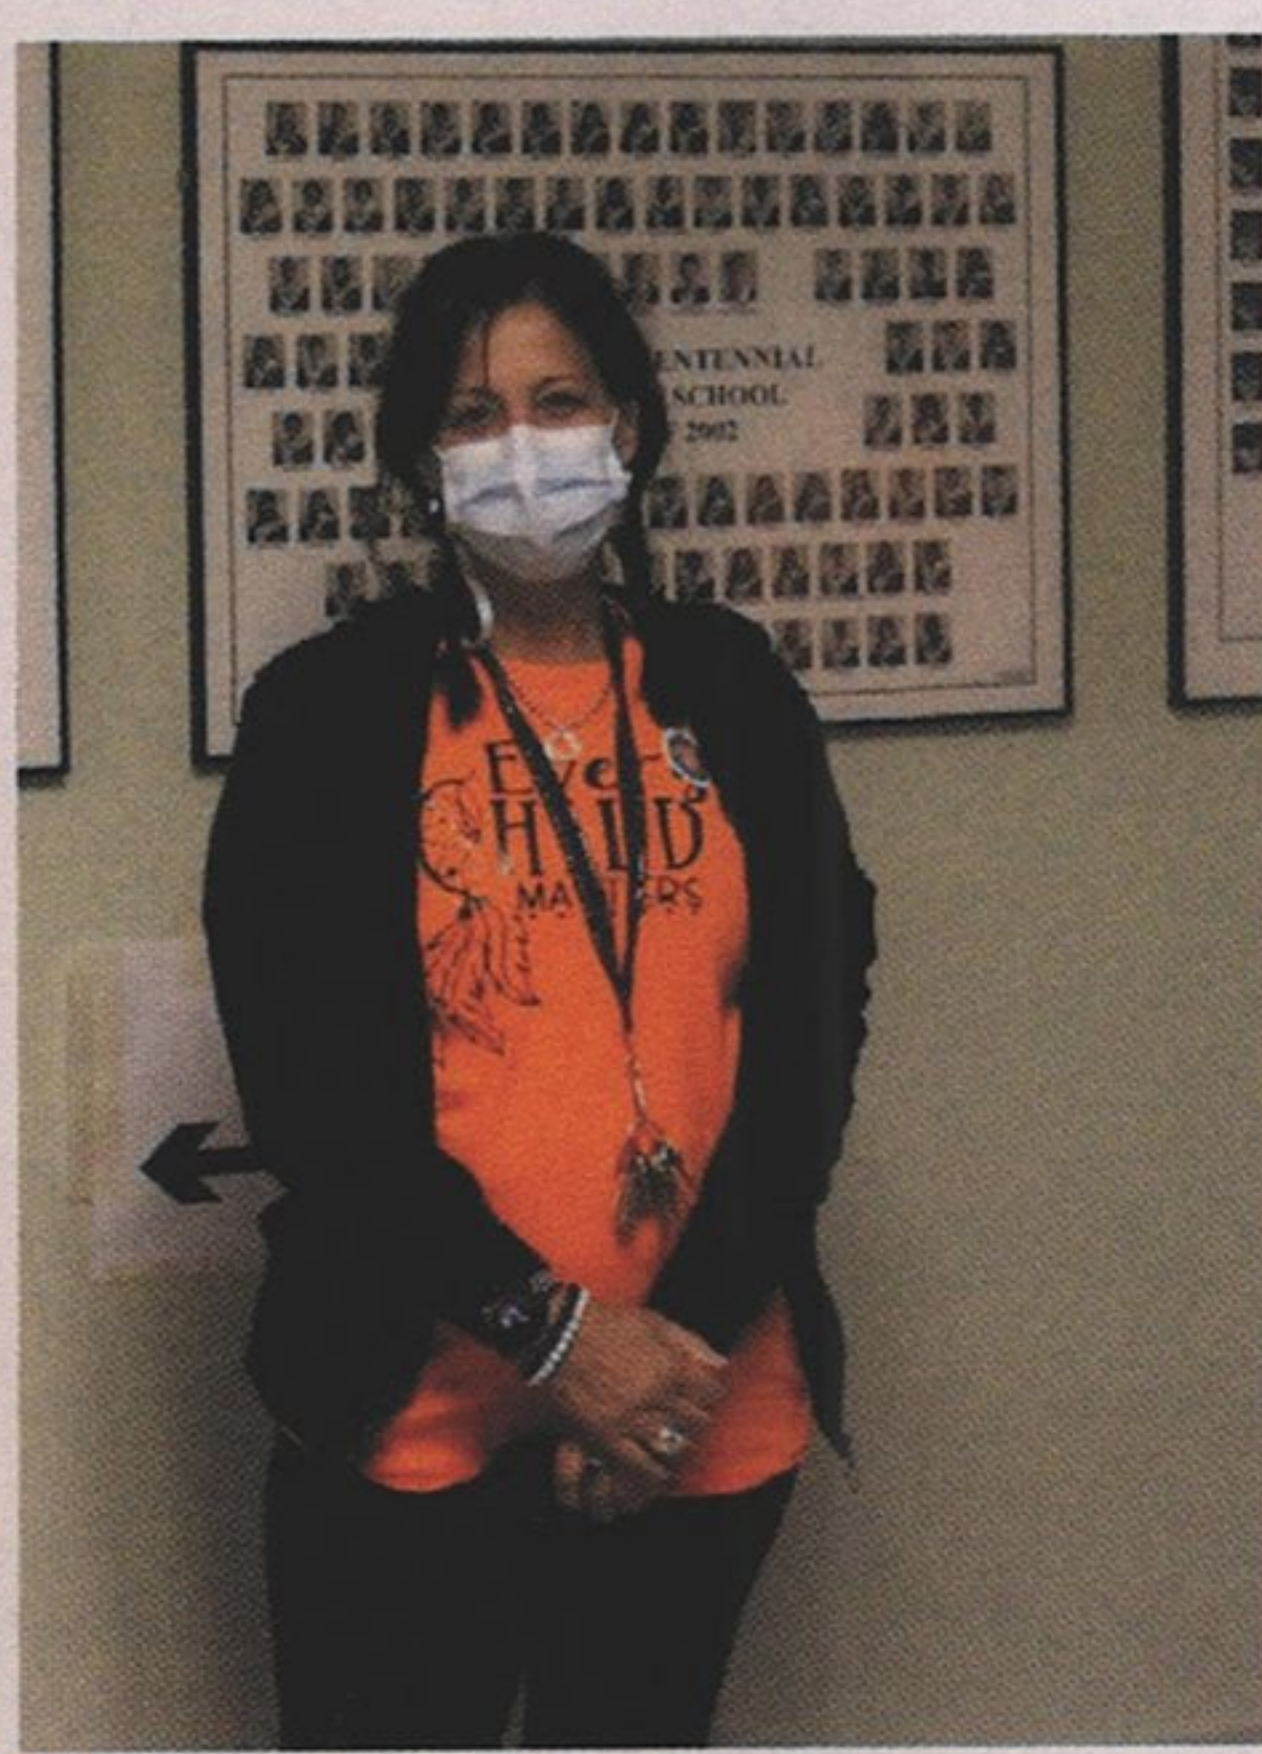

Westview Goes Orange

Why Orange ?

Phyllis Webstad started her first day of school at St. Joseph Mission Residential School in Williams Lake, British Columbia. Excited about her first day of school she decided to wear a brand new bright orange shirt to match her feelings. Her elation was dashed when the school took her shirt and never returned it. Phyllis was only six years old. So beginning in 2013 people across Canada wear orange shirts every September 30th to acknowledge the legacy of residential schools and recognize the hardships endured by indigenous children.

Downie Wenjack Walk

The Walk For Chanie

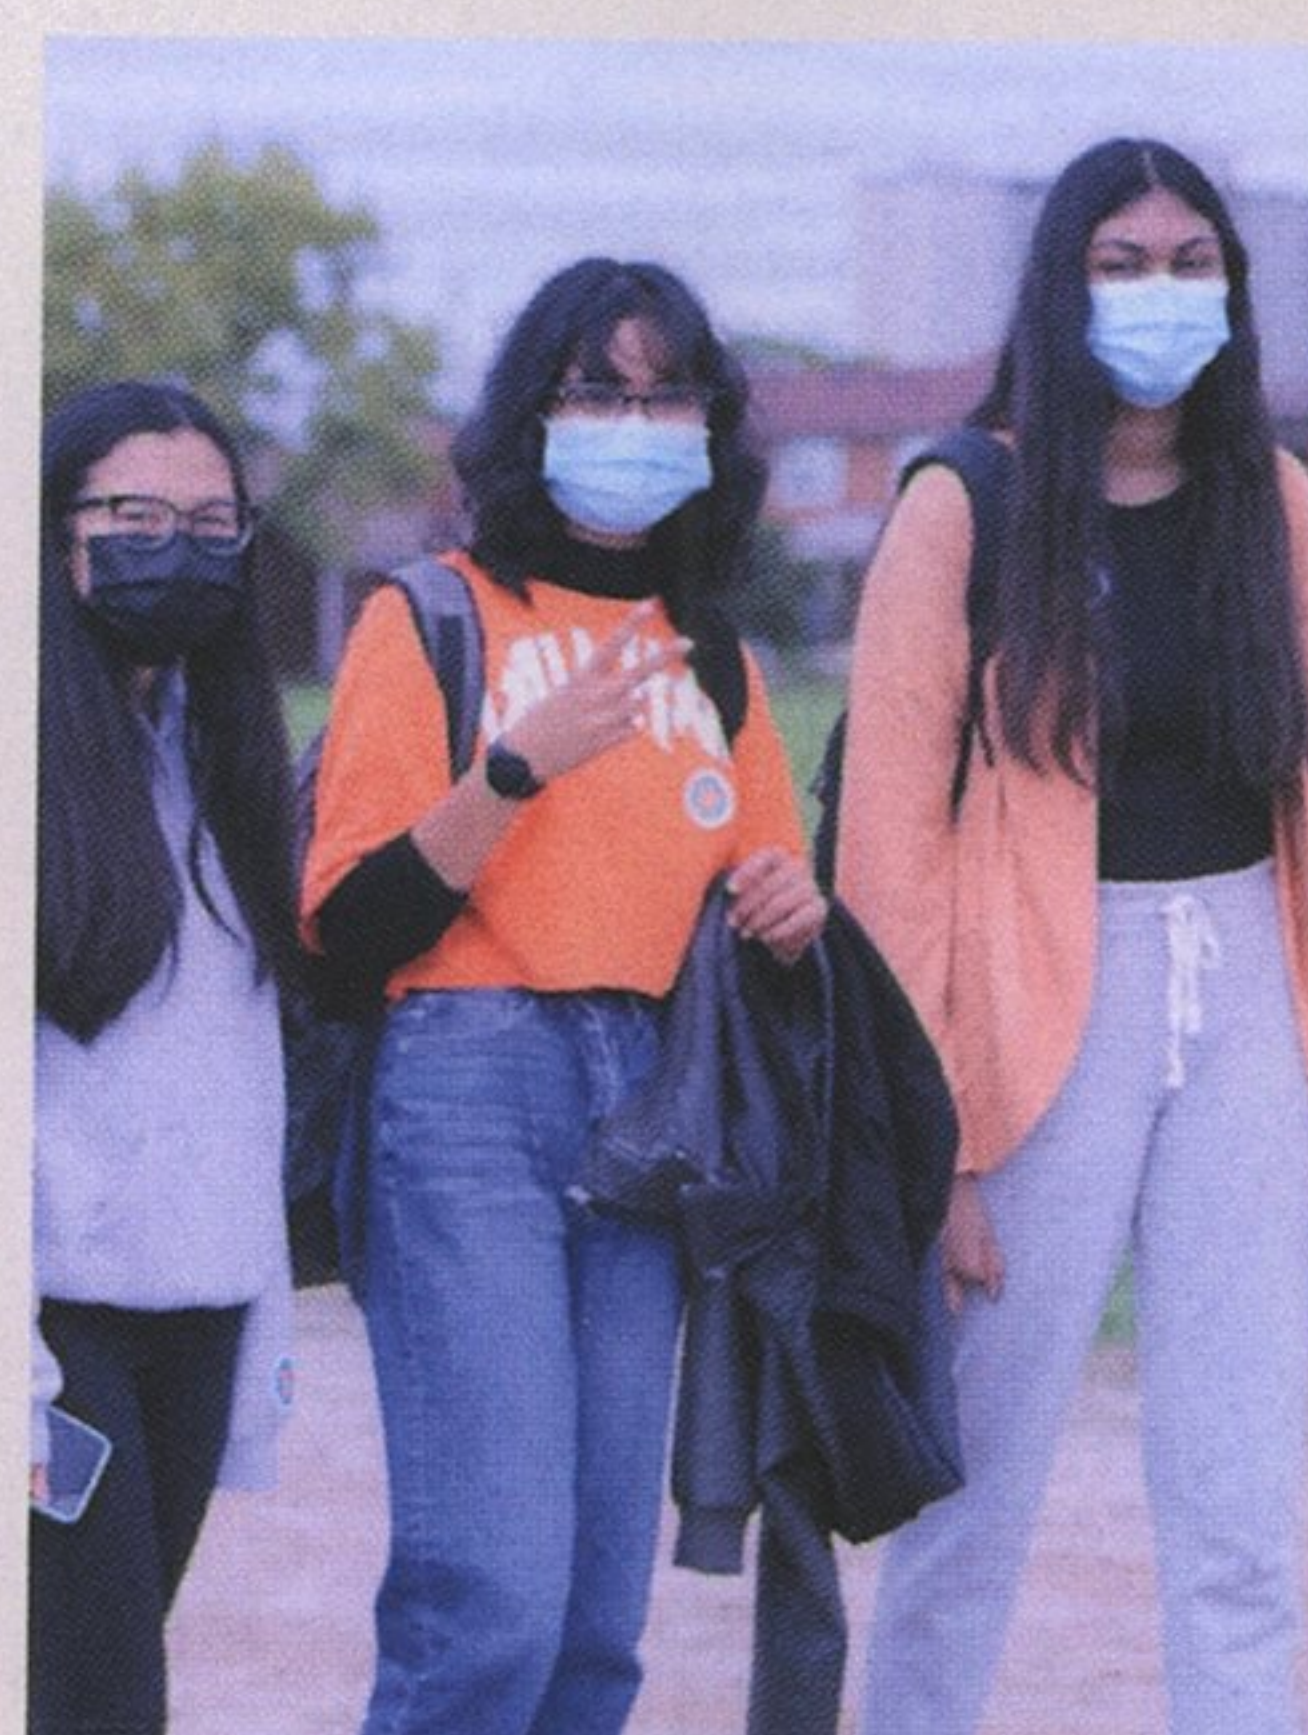

Later that same day, students and staff took to the field at 2:15 to begin the Downie Wenjack Walk. Everyone at Westview sought to walk a total of 10 laps each around the field to equal the 600-kilometer Chanie Wenjack attempted to walk to reach his family after running away from a Residential school. Unfortunately, he died of starvation and exposure while trying to escape. This walk was to not only remember Chanie, but to reflect, think, and learn about the tribulations indigenous students experienced in Canada's Residential School System. We were able to also raise a total of $615 for the Downie Wenjack Foundation and awareness on indigenous issues.

RUN FOR TERRY

"DREAMS ARE MADE POSSIBLE IF YOU TRY"

Westview has hosted yet another Terry Fox Run. The annual cancer fundraiser was hosted on October 5, 2021, and has earned some of the most donations in recent years, grossing a grand total of $817.30.

The annual run was organized by Ms. K. Root and the Leadership Class (PLF 4M). The goal was to raise as much money as possible and get the students to walk around the school a minimum of 3 times, getting at least 1-3 km per student. Westview's students were not the only ones to participate however; neighboring schools had joined in advertising and running for Terry.

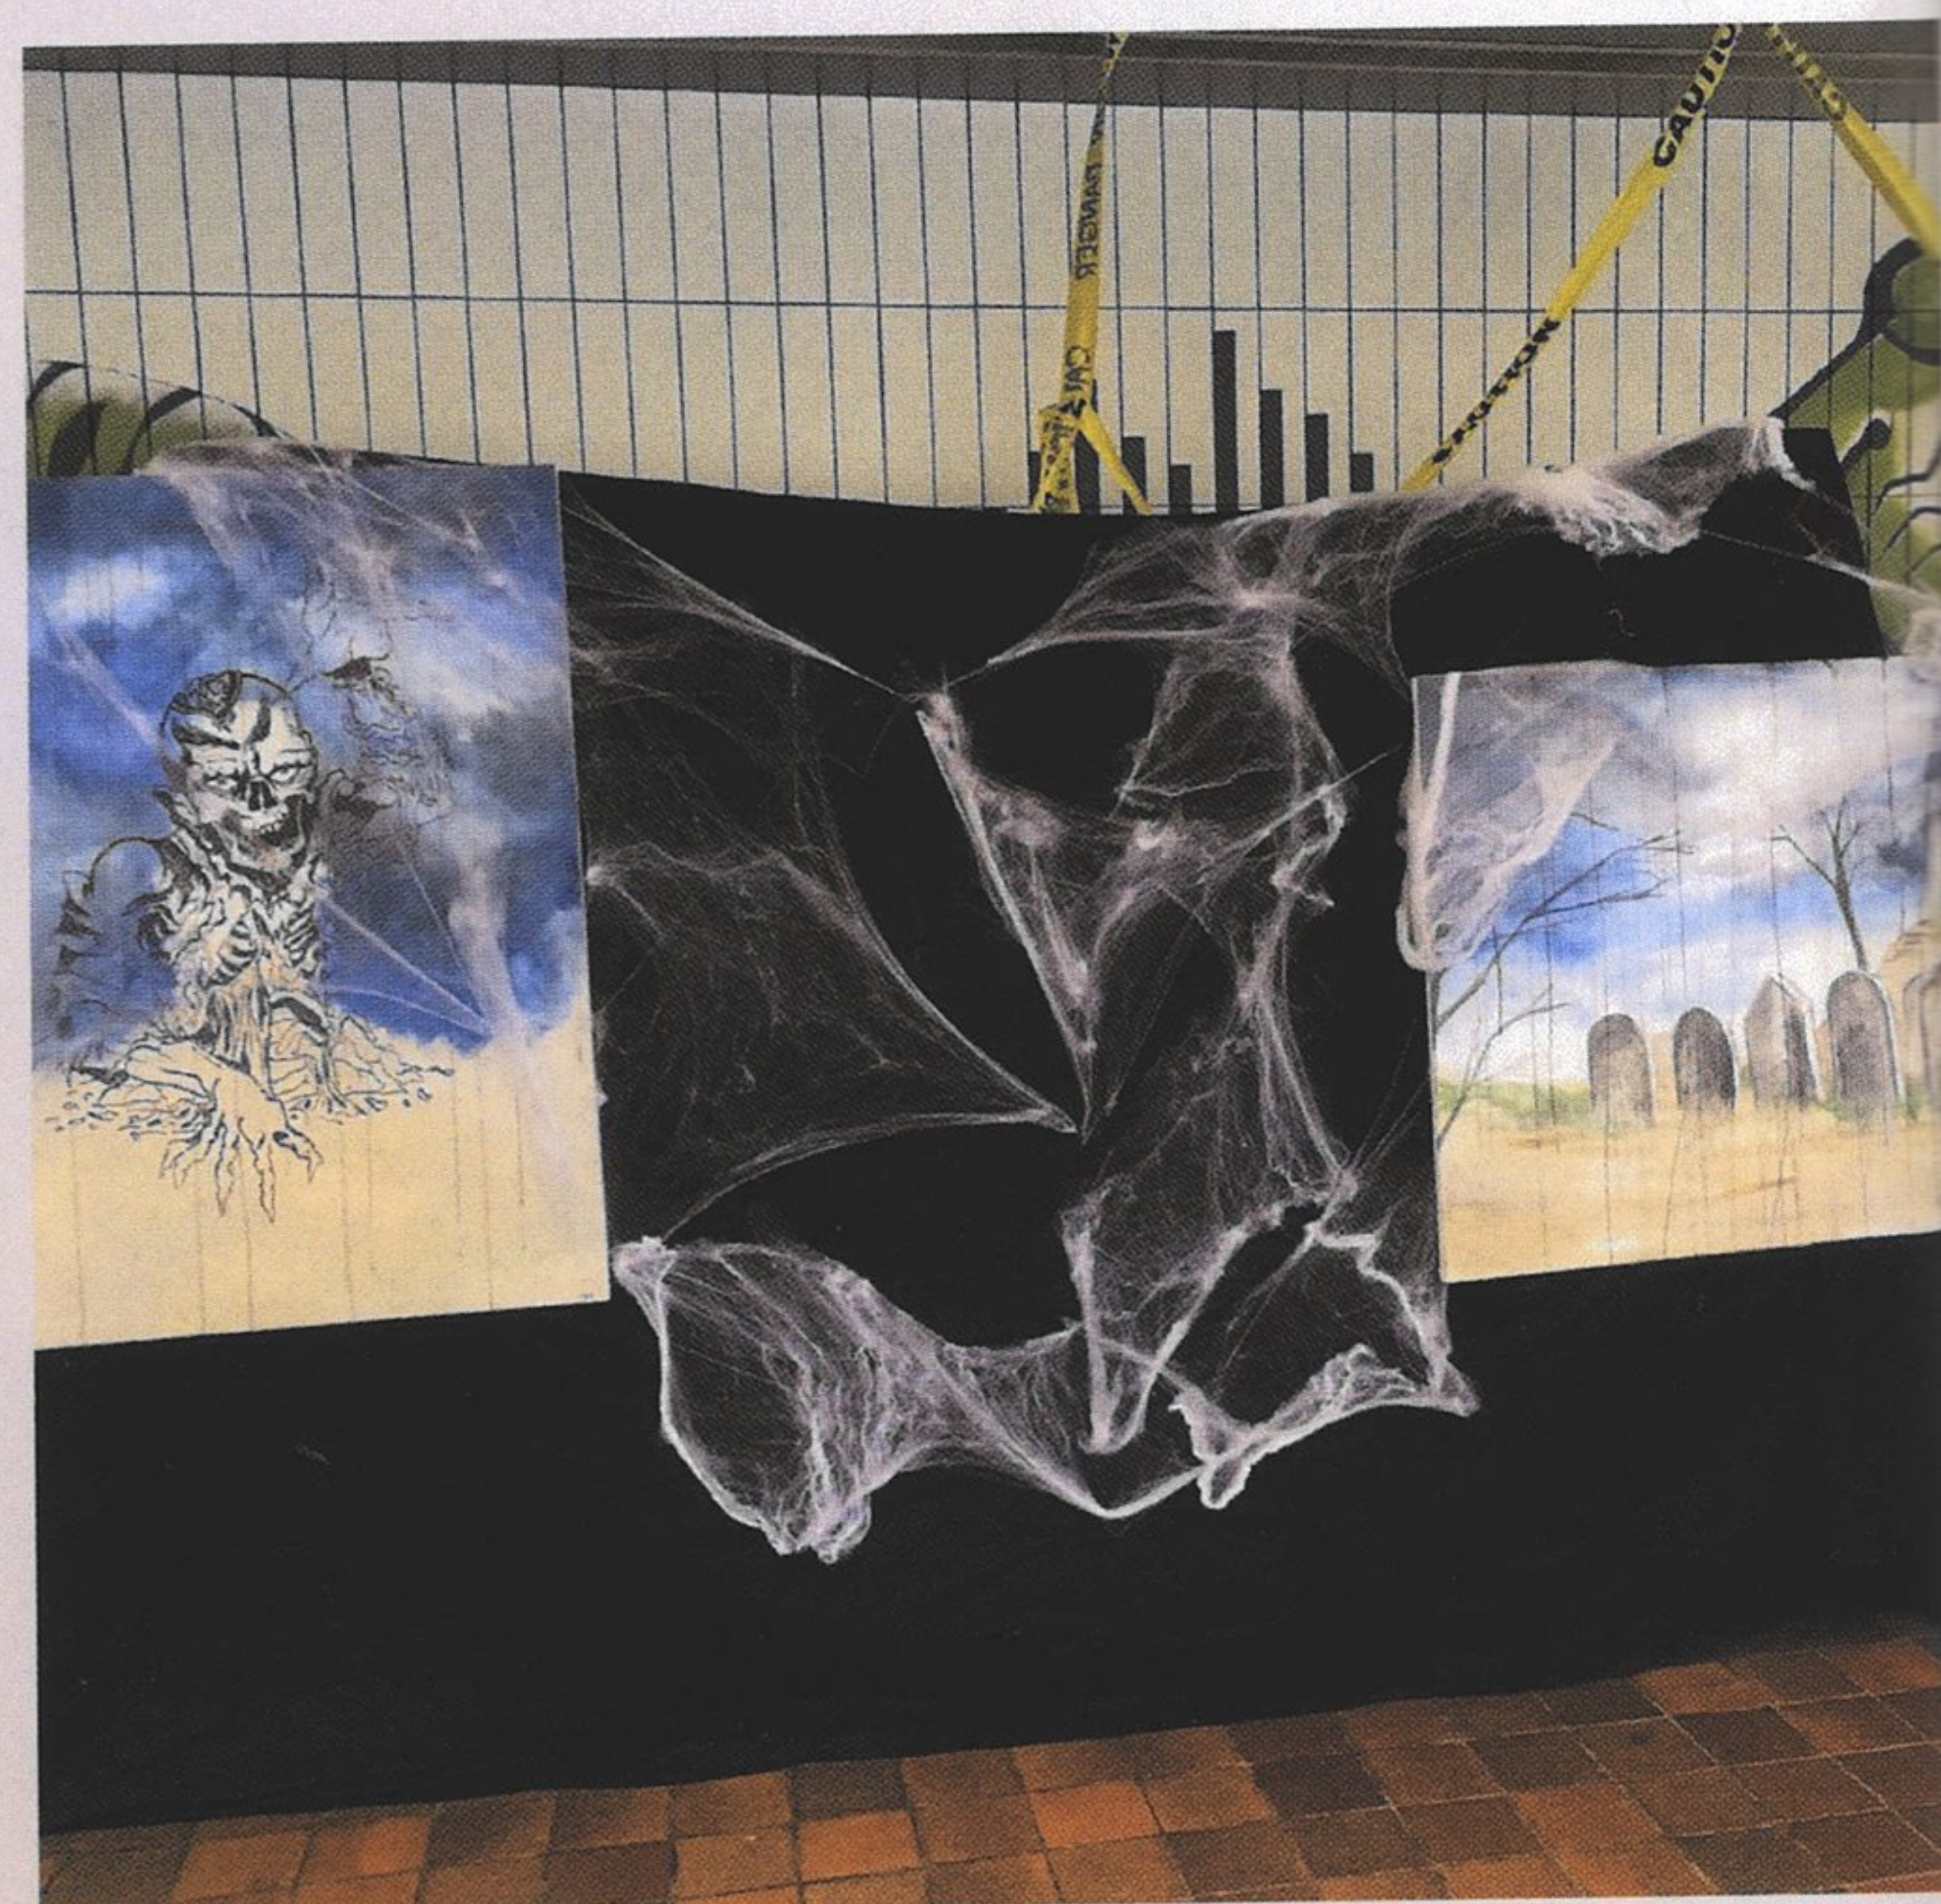

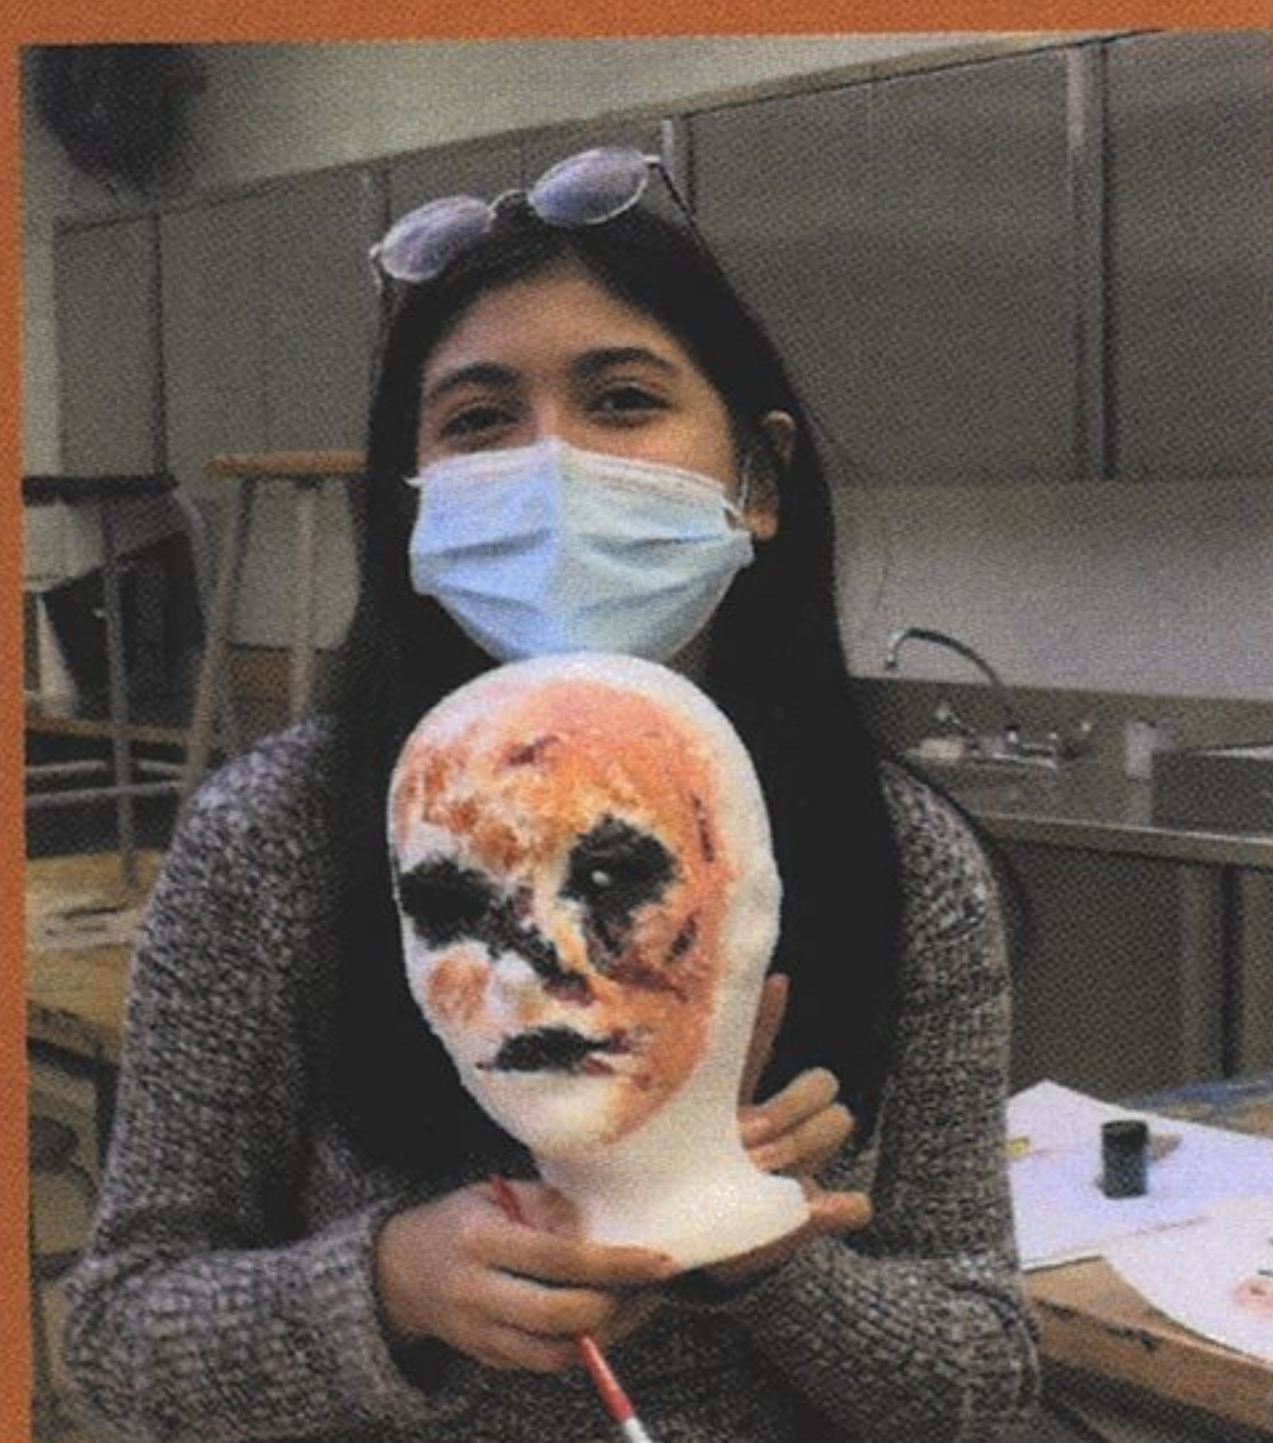

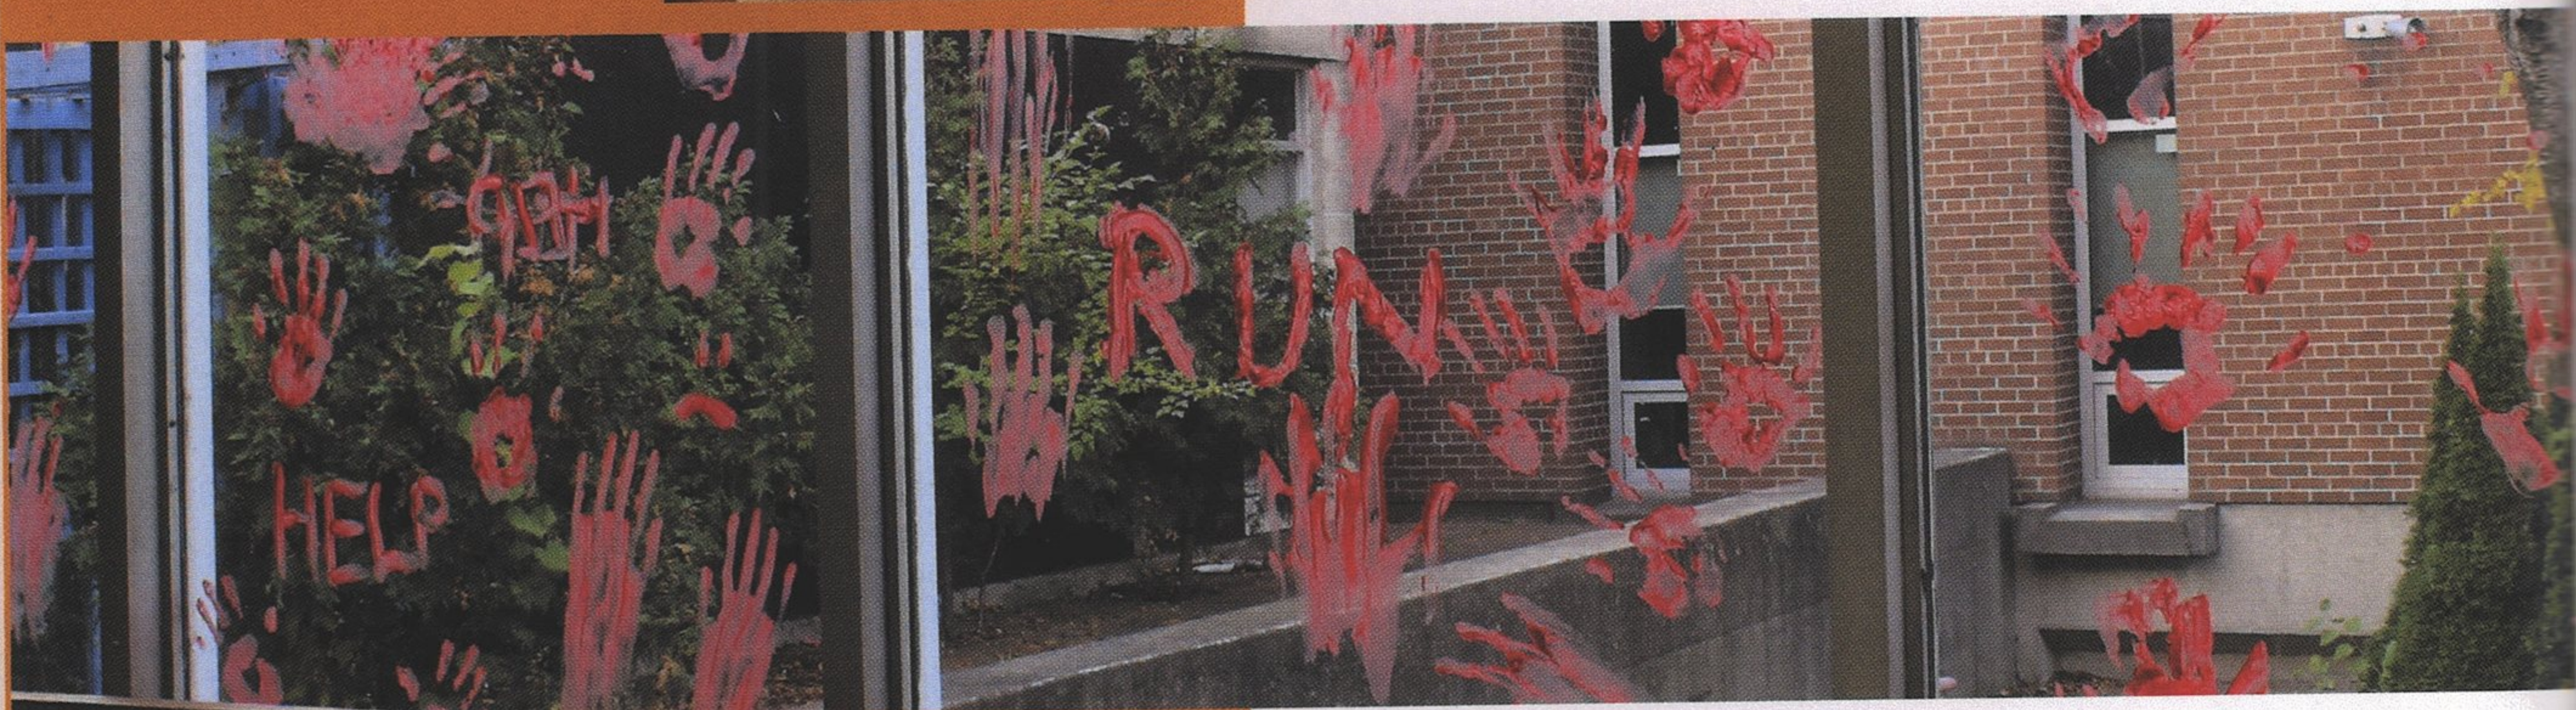

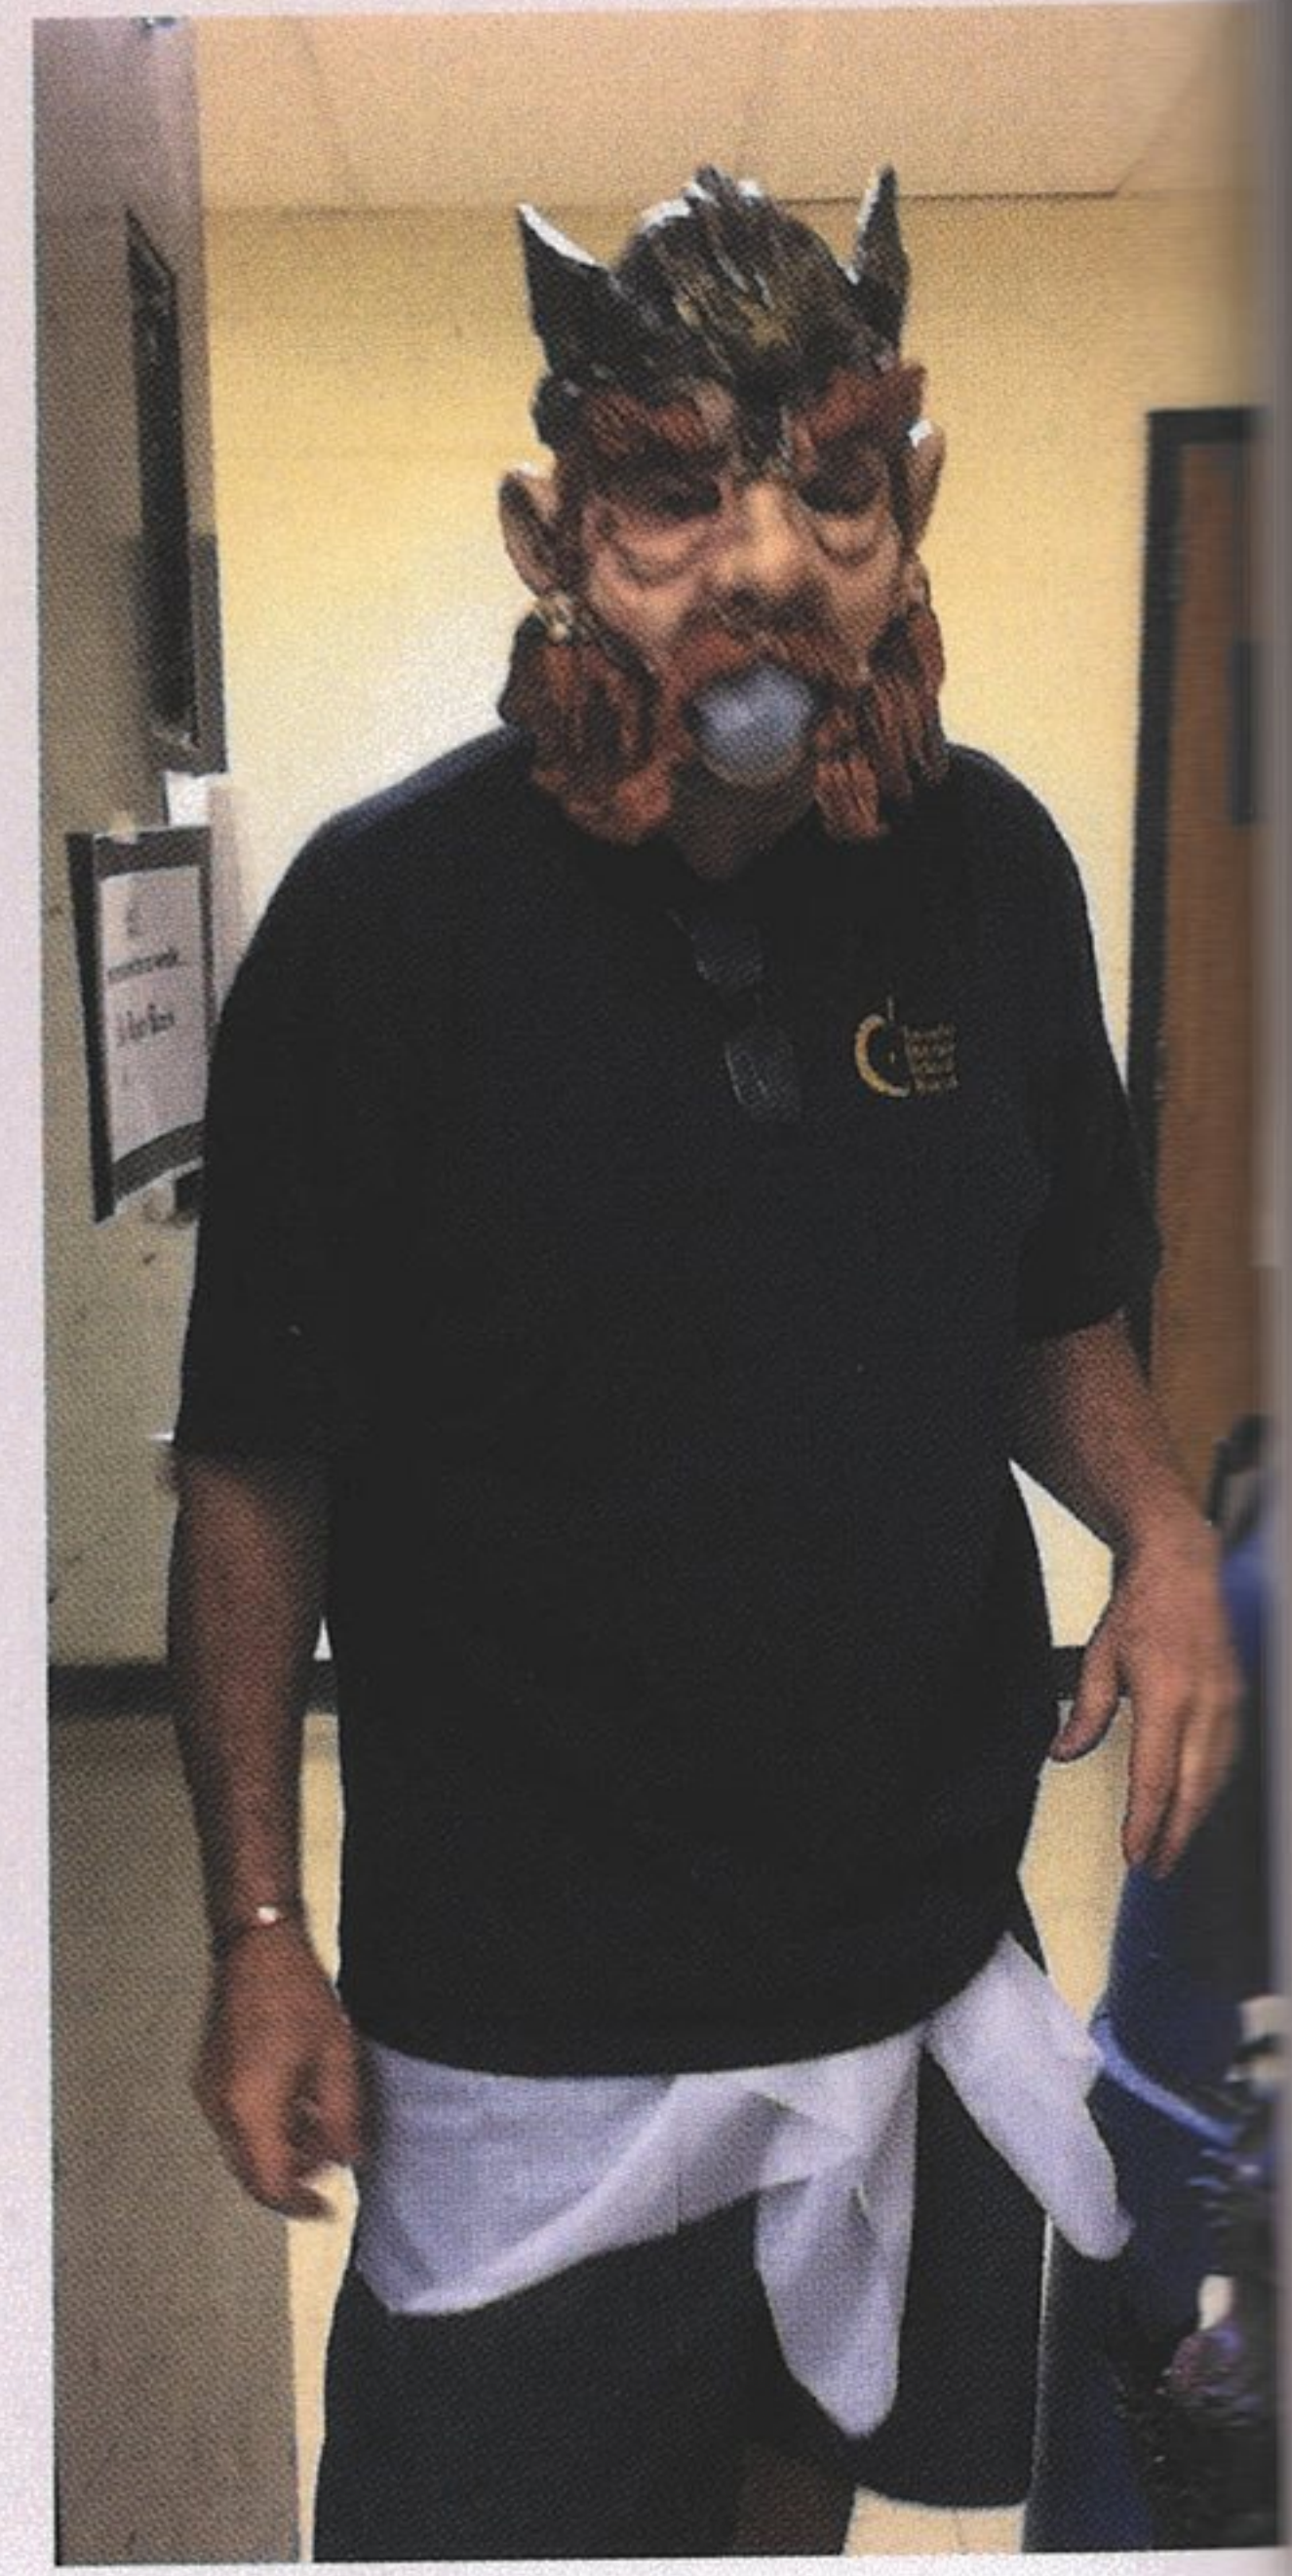

Despite the wet grass, cloudy sky and COVID-19 precautions, Westview students strove to make an enjoyable run.

CHILLS & THRILLS

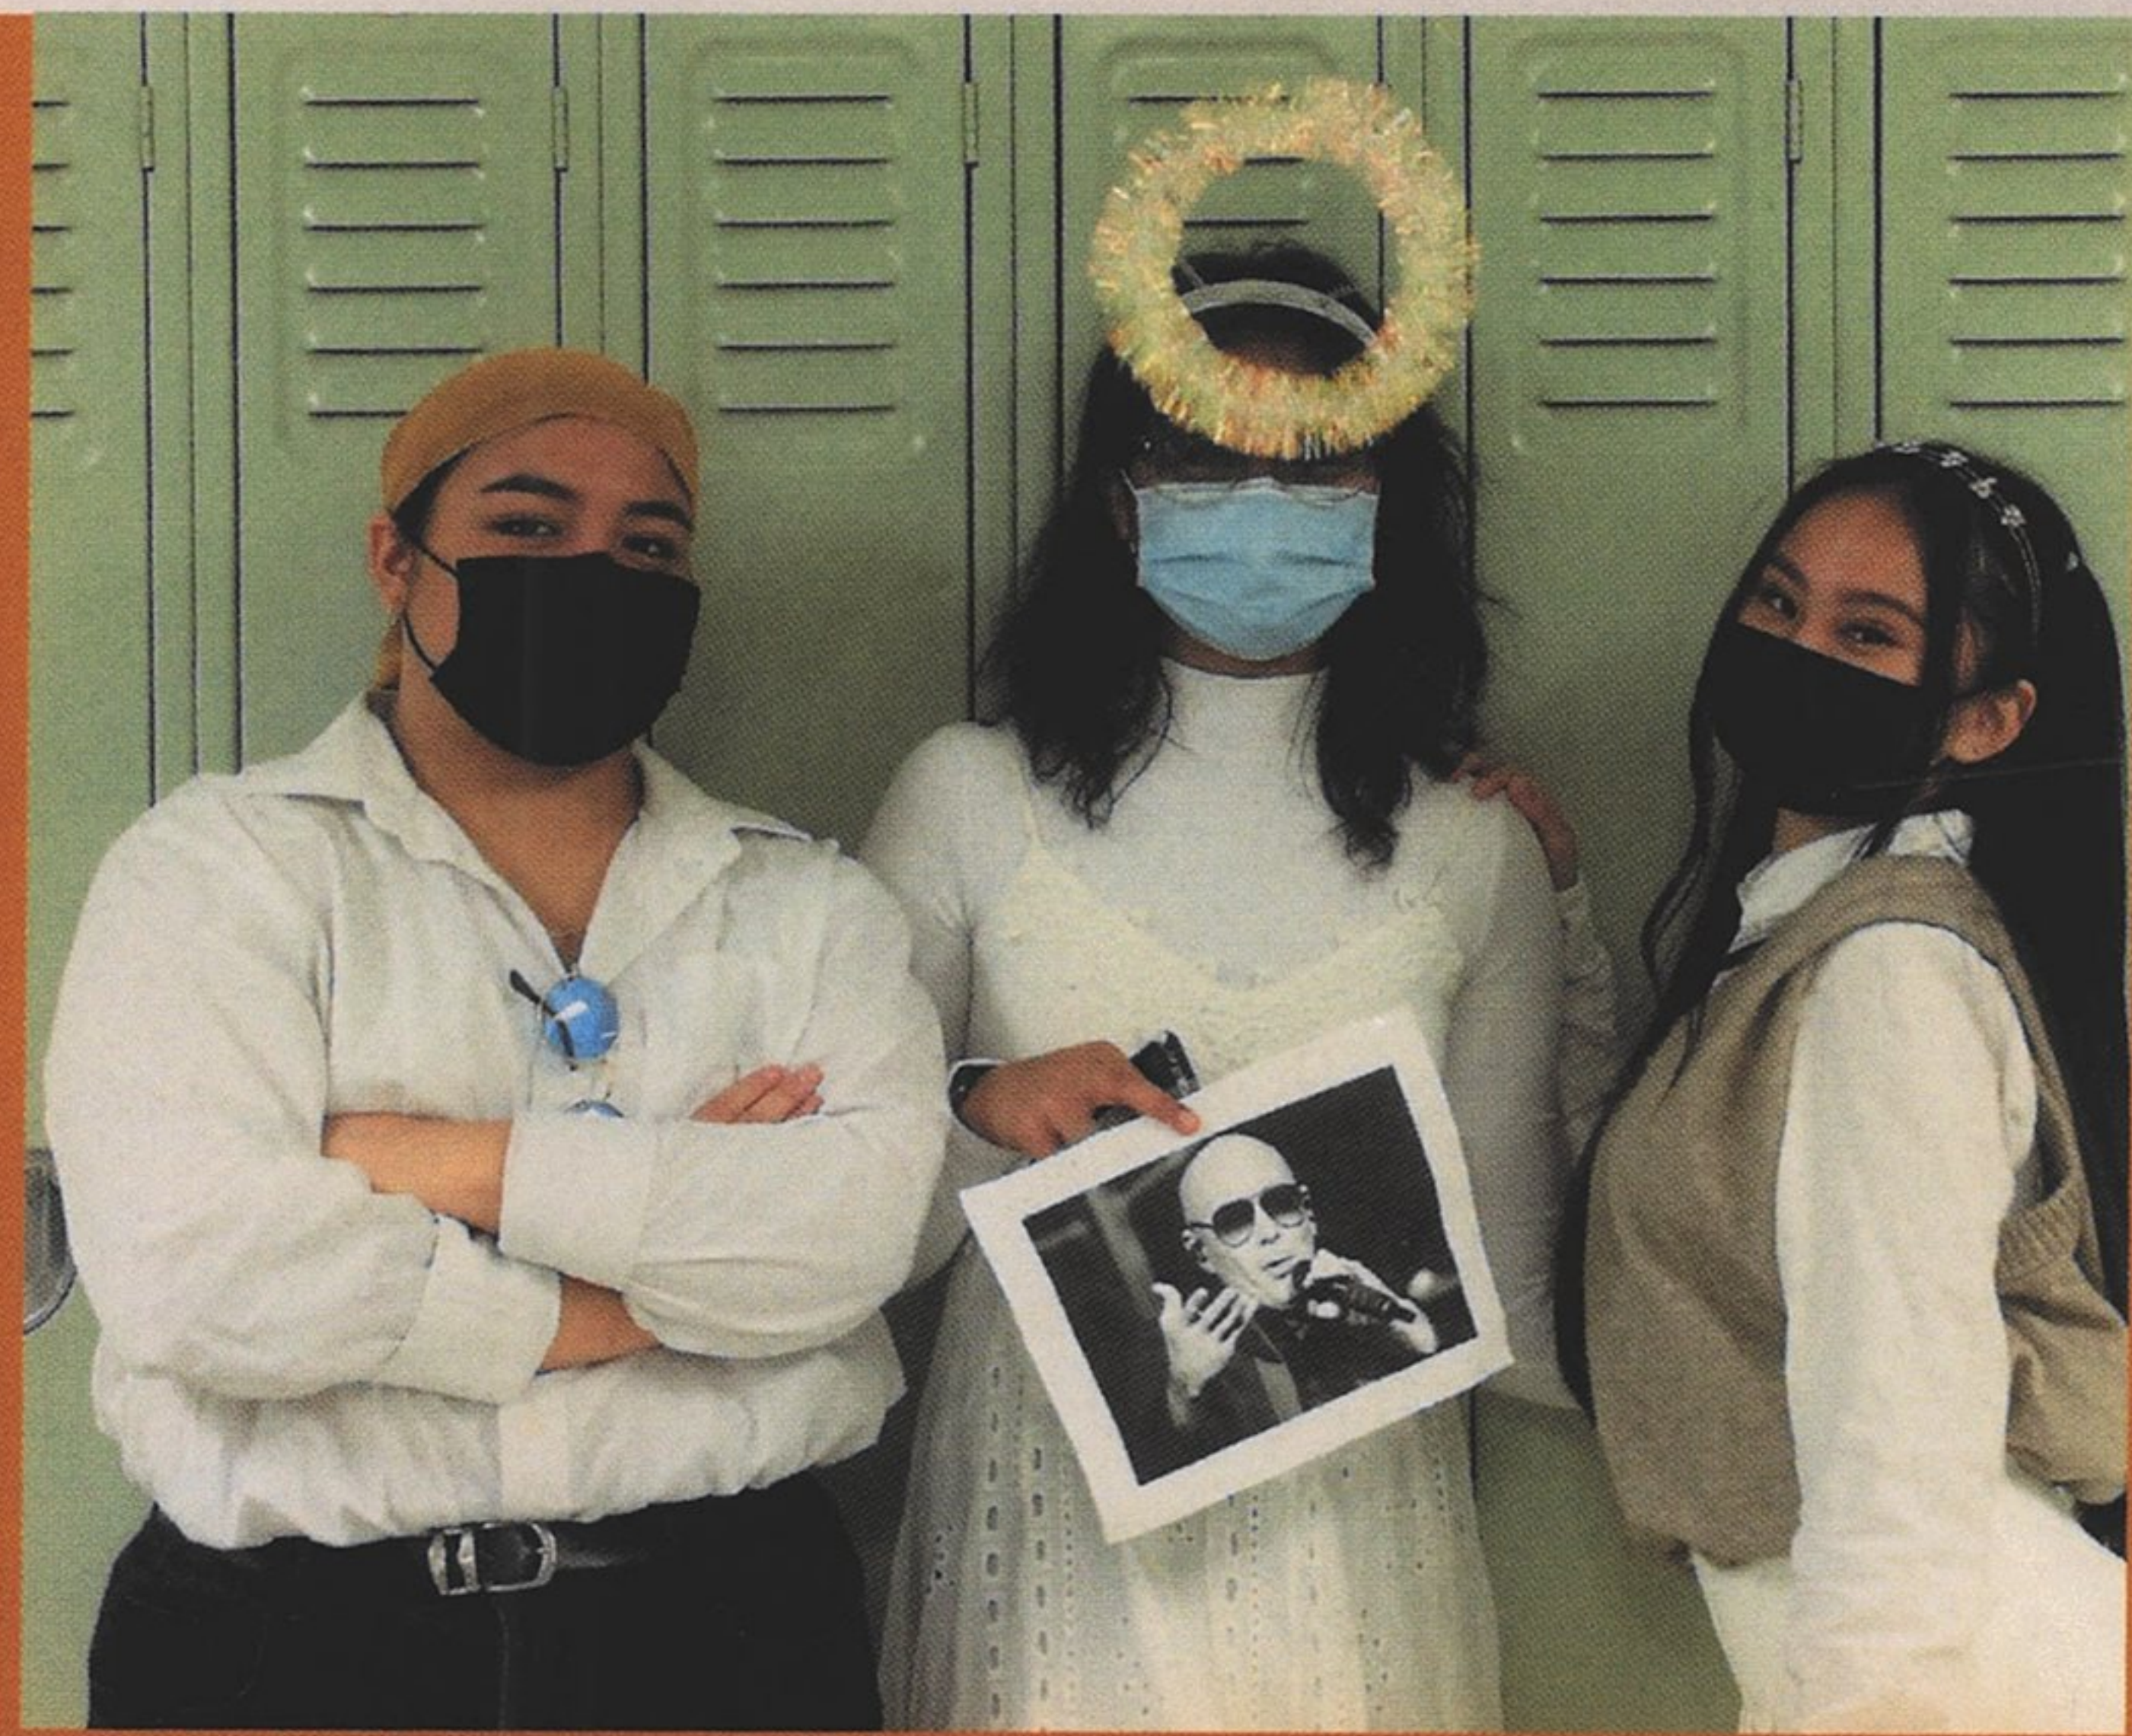

Halloween was BACK in a BIG way with students decorating the cafeteria and lobby. The stage was pumpkin carving central. Students and staff could take freaky photos in the photo booth.

Remembrance Day

11.11.21

Westview Remembers

Adopted on July 6th, 1921, this year marks the 100th anniversary of the poppy as Canada's symbol of Remembrance. The poppy, as a symbol for Remembrance, was inspired by the poem In Flanders Fields written by Lt-Col John McCrae. He was a native son, who was born in Guelph, Ontario, and died near the end of the first World War. Westview took this day to remember and honor Canada's veterans and fallen soldiers.

Firequakers

Ever wonder why there are so many Canada Geese on Westview's grounds?

Geese are commonly found in wetlands, from ponds to rivers and lakes. Canada geese spend more time on land than in water. They are recognized with their black head, white cheeks and long black neck.

There are different types of geese in Canada. Each region has its type of geese. Although there is considerable debate over the actual number of geese subspecies in Canada, the majority of scientists believe there are 11.

Spring is the breeding season for geese. They become aggressive as they try to protect their offspring that they believe are threatened or endangered. If you get too close, you'll certainly be chased away.

Leg stretch

SCREAMING

Migration is a learned habit. It takes one generation of geese not teaching their goslings to migrate to wipe out this ability. Geese have found more safe havens and have less reasons to migrate south. Practically all geese now spend the entire year in the same region.

For the winter, Canadian geese usually move to southern agricultural areas. To do so they fly in a characteristic V pattern, with one goose leading the flock and the members following the in a v- shape behind it.

This allows the geese to conserve energy when migrating by allowing them to take advantage of the air currents that pass over the leader. This aids them to fly longer distances.

So plan to stay away from their aggressive side and stay safe.

FUNDS FOR UKRAINE

HELPING A COUNTRY IN NEED!

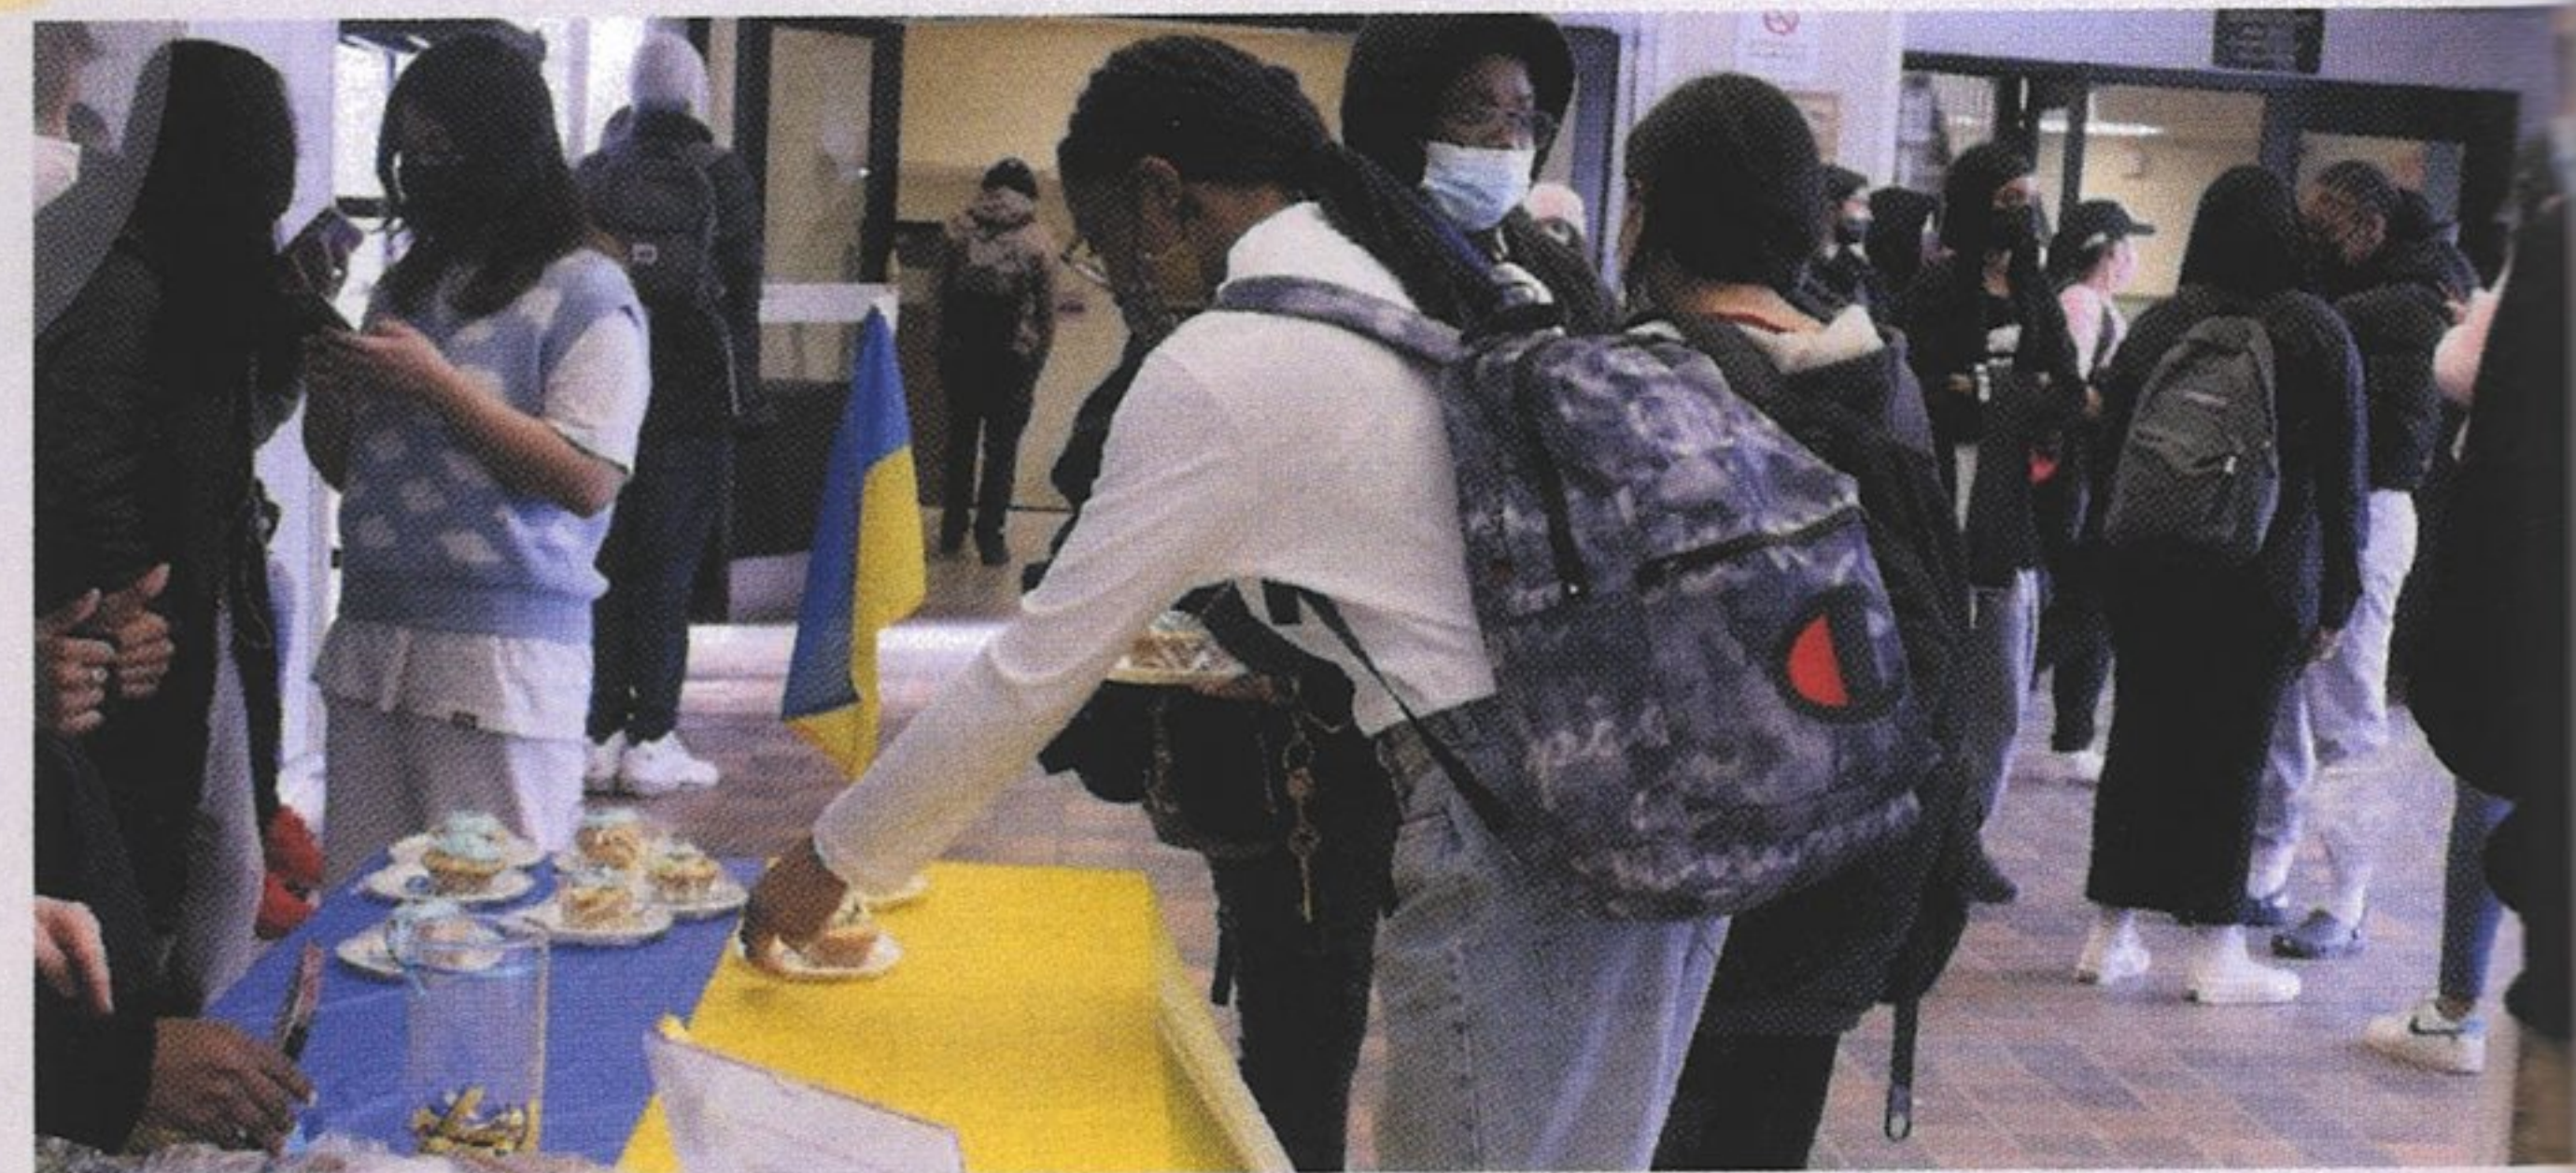

On February 24th Russia invaded the sovereign country of Ukraine and began a war. The world watched in disbelief as millions of Ukrainians flee their homes seeking refuge in the neighboring countries of Poland, Romania, Moldova, Hungary and Slovakia. Initiated by Ms. Koshy and her foods class and aided by Ms. Cooke and her fashion technology class, a bake sale fundraiser was held on April 6th.

Ms. B Cooke, Tishauna Bailey, Tori Bujold and Melissa Khan.

Bake sale treats included cupcakes and banana loaves. Lapel pins bearing the colours of the Ukrainian flag were also on sale for fifty cents. Westview raised a total of 176.95 with all proceeds going to humanitarian aid.

WILDCATS IN PINK

Wednesday, April 14th was the International Day of Pink. At Westview we support this important day by encouraging staff and students to wear pink to raise awareness to stop discrimination, gender-based bullying, homophobia, and transphobia.

Its also a way for our school to show its support and stand in solidarity with the 2SLGBTQIA+ community to continue fighting for equality and acceptance.

Pink day is more than just a symbol of a shared belief in celebrating diversity, it is also a commitment to creating a more inclusive and diverse world that is open-minded and respectful.

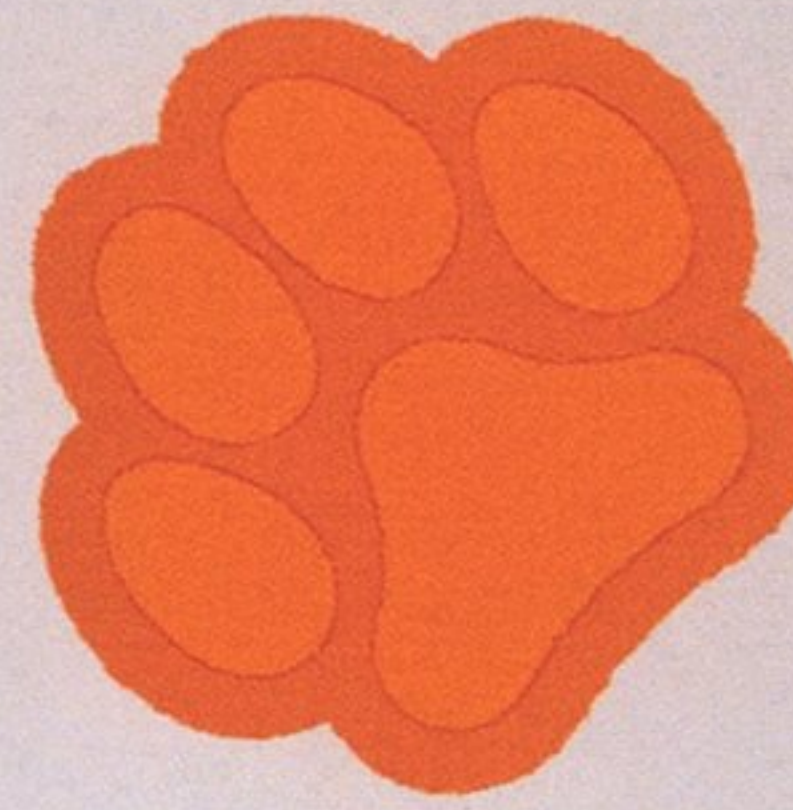

Jayden Penones, Bon Bliss Bertanico, Kaneil Evans and Justin Srirangan.

This was a day filled with student-teacher - run activities. The Gay-Sexuality Alliance (GSA) placed affirmation pink stickers around the school.

Students and staff: Mr. Zoras, Ms. Medeiros, Ms. Moro, Mr. Petrozzi, Mr. Gala, Ms. D'Addamio organized the distribution of more than 600 Pink Shirts.

Westview Wins at the Beaver Computing Challenge

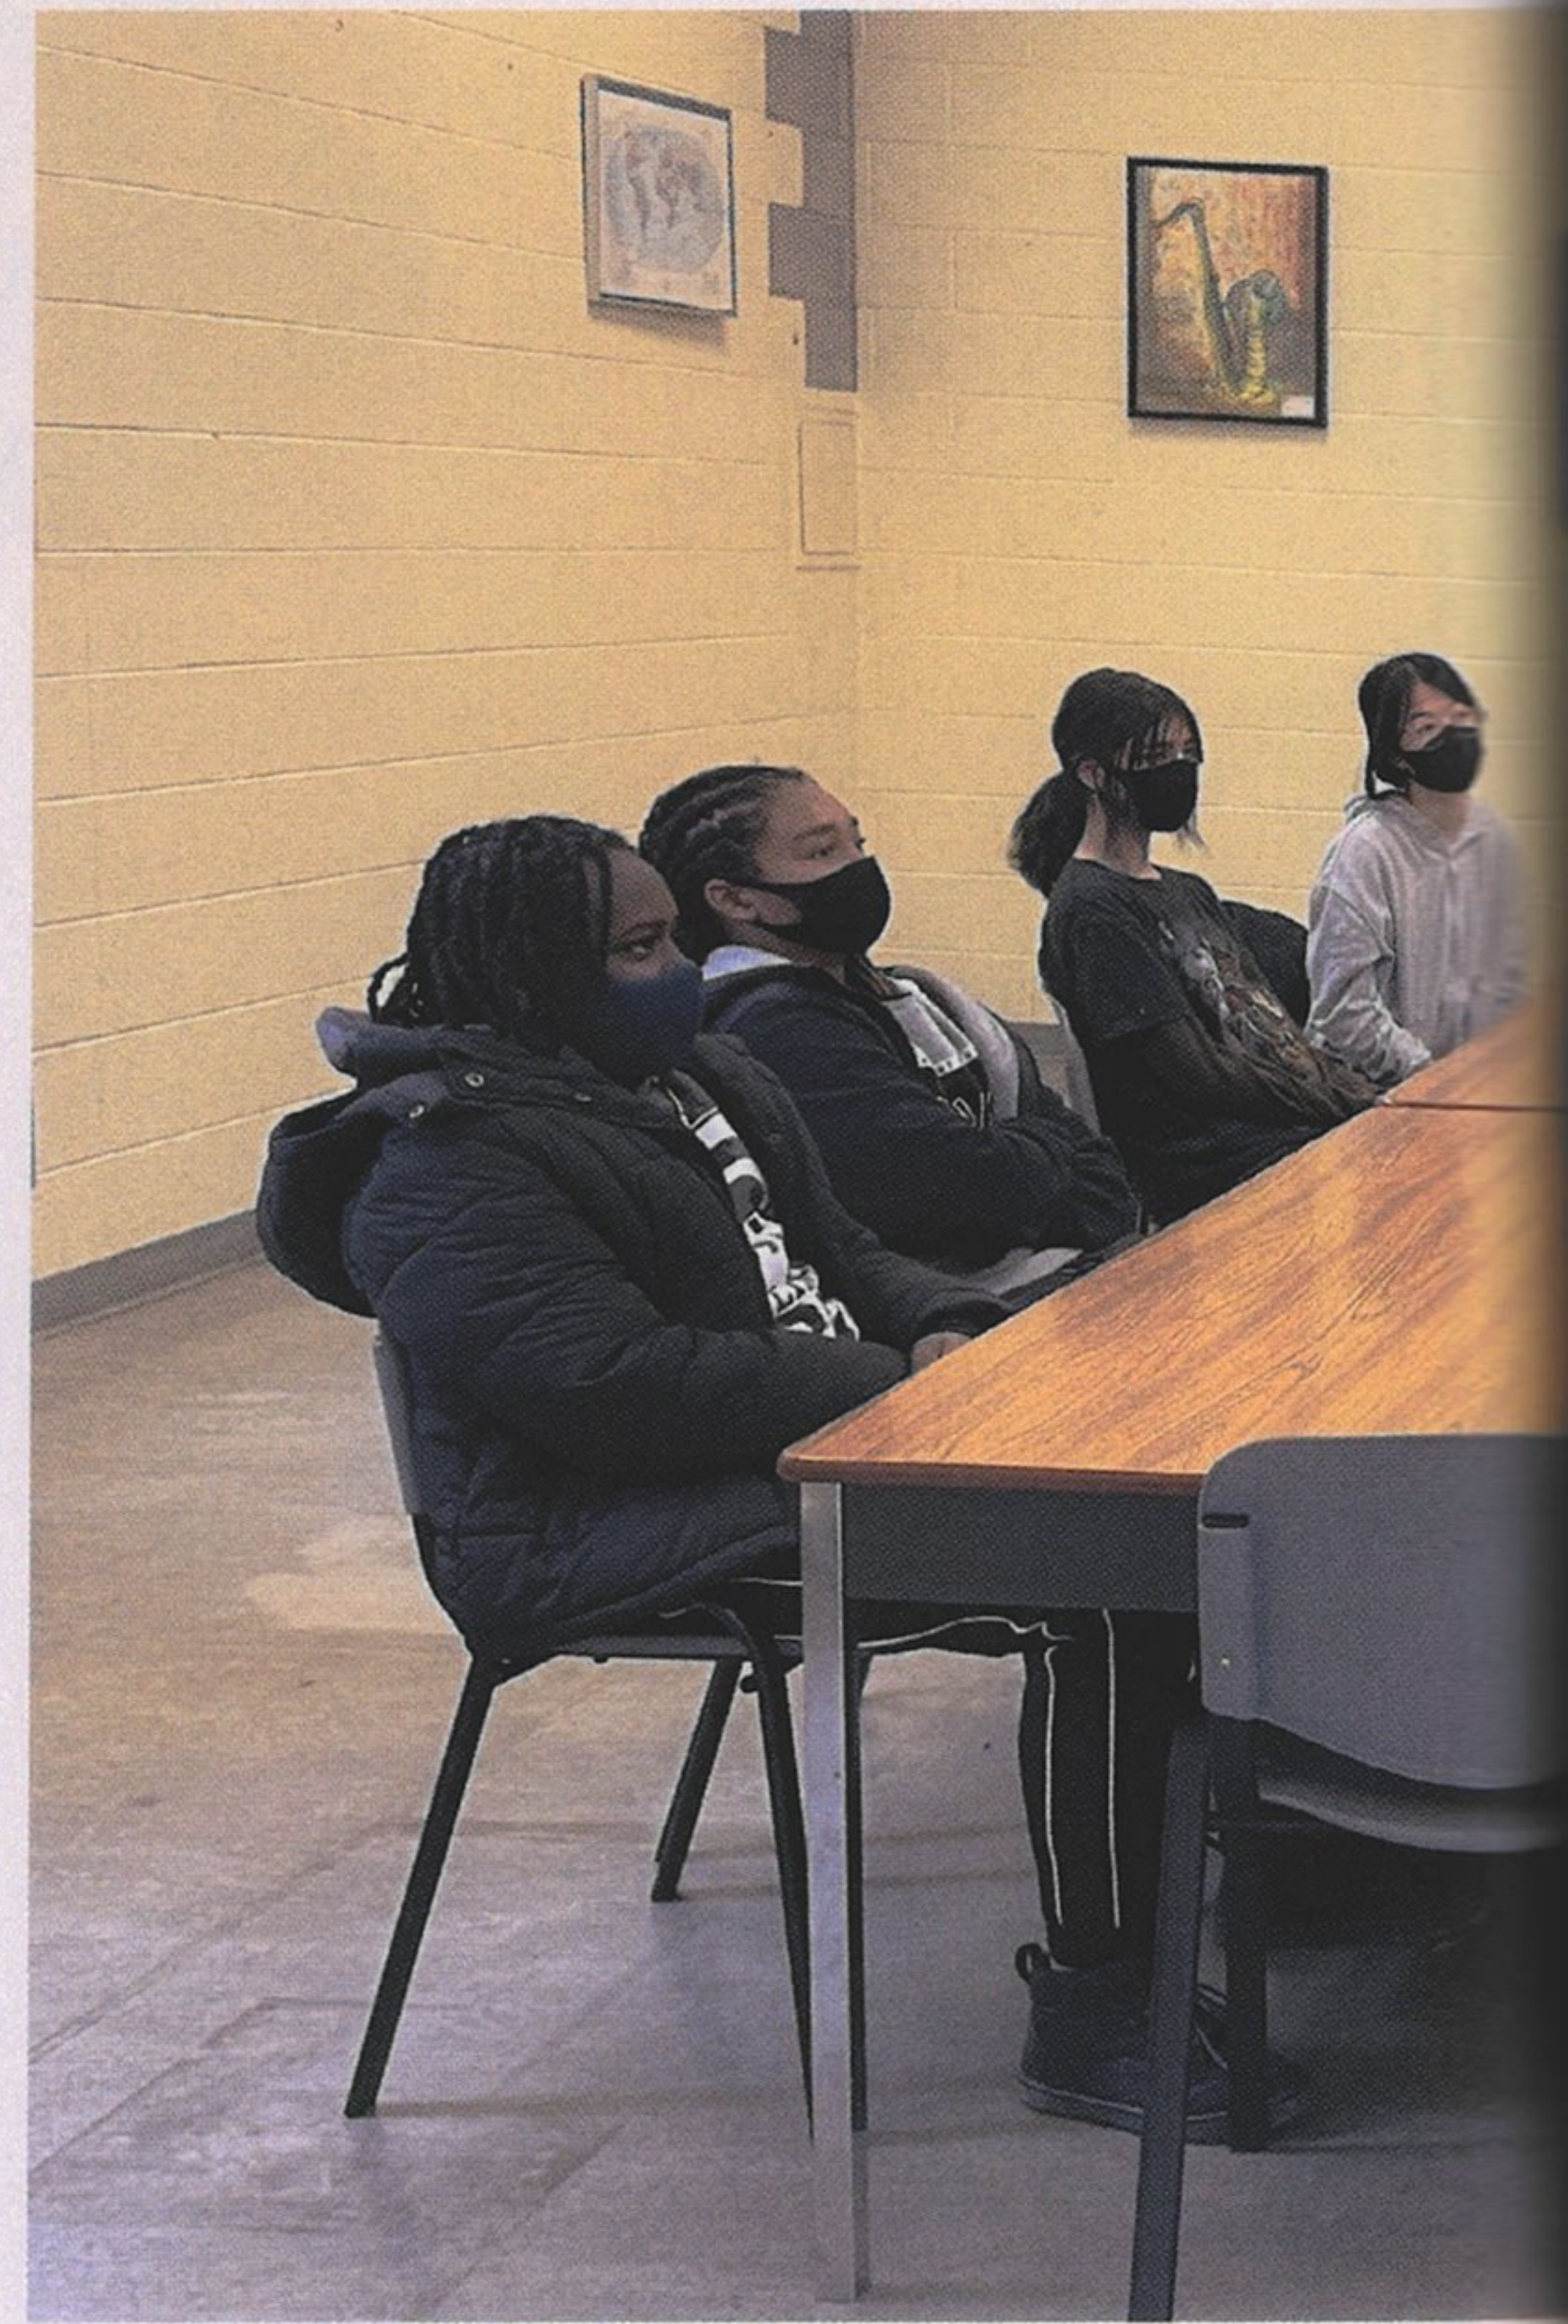

There wasn't a pre-requisite to enroll in the Beaver Computer Challenge at the Centre for Education in Mathematics and Computing at the University of Waterloo. It is more like an entry level computing challenge. Approximately fifty spots were ordered for our school and the competition was held during two weeks in October.

The questions were authored by different countries and summarized onto logical computer science questions. Two weeks after the competition we learned we had four students who scored above 70% (with distinction) in their first ever coding competition. This was cause for a celebration.!

An award ceremony took place on November 17th in the library. A lunch was served to all participants and certificates awarded.

Congratulations to high competition scorers Jay Nguy, Andrew Lor, Malak Rawlins and Caydan Thomas.

The Yearbook...

A lot of challenges.

a year of memories

The most intense time of the year has started and the digital arts class needs to finish the yearbook before the deadline. Will they finish?

The Digital Arts class taught by Ms. Cooke is facing the biggest challenge of the year, finishing the yearbook completely and meeting the deadline at the same time. A yearbook has to be done with attention to detail and consistent effort and this year's effort is no exception. All the people involved in the yearbook have worked very hard and it is time to culminate all their efforts in a single project.

Yearbook teacher Ms. Cooke's says, "This semester's class deserves mention as they worked hard under difficult circumstances. The class was small in number so more work was required by fewer students. The first semester class also contributed in a big way with Favoaz Badru creating this year's cover."

"This semester's class deserves credit as they worked hard under difficult circumstances."

The yearbook editing platform provided by the Canadian publisher Friesen's.

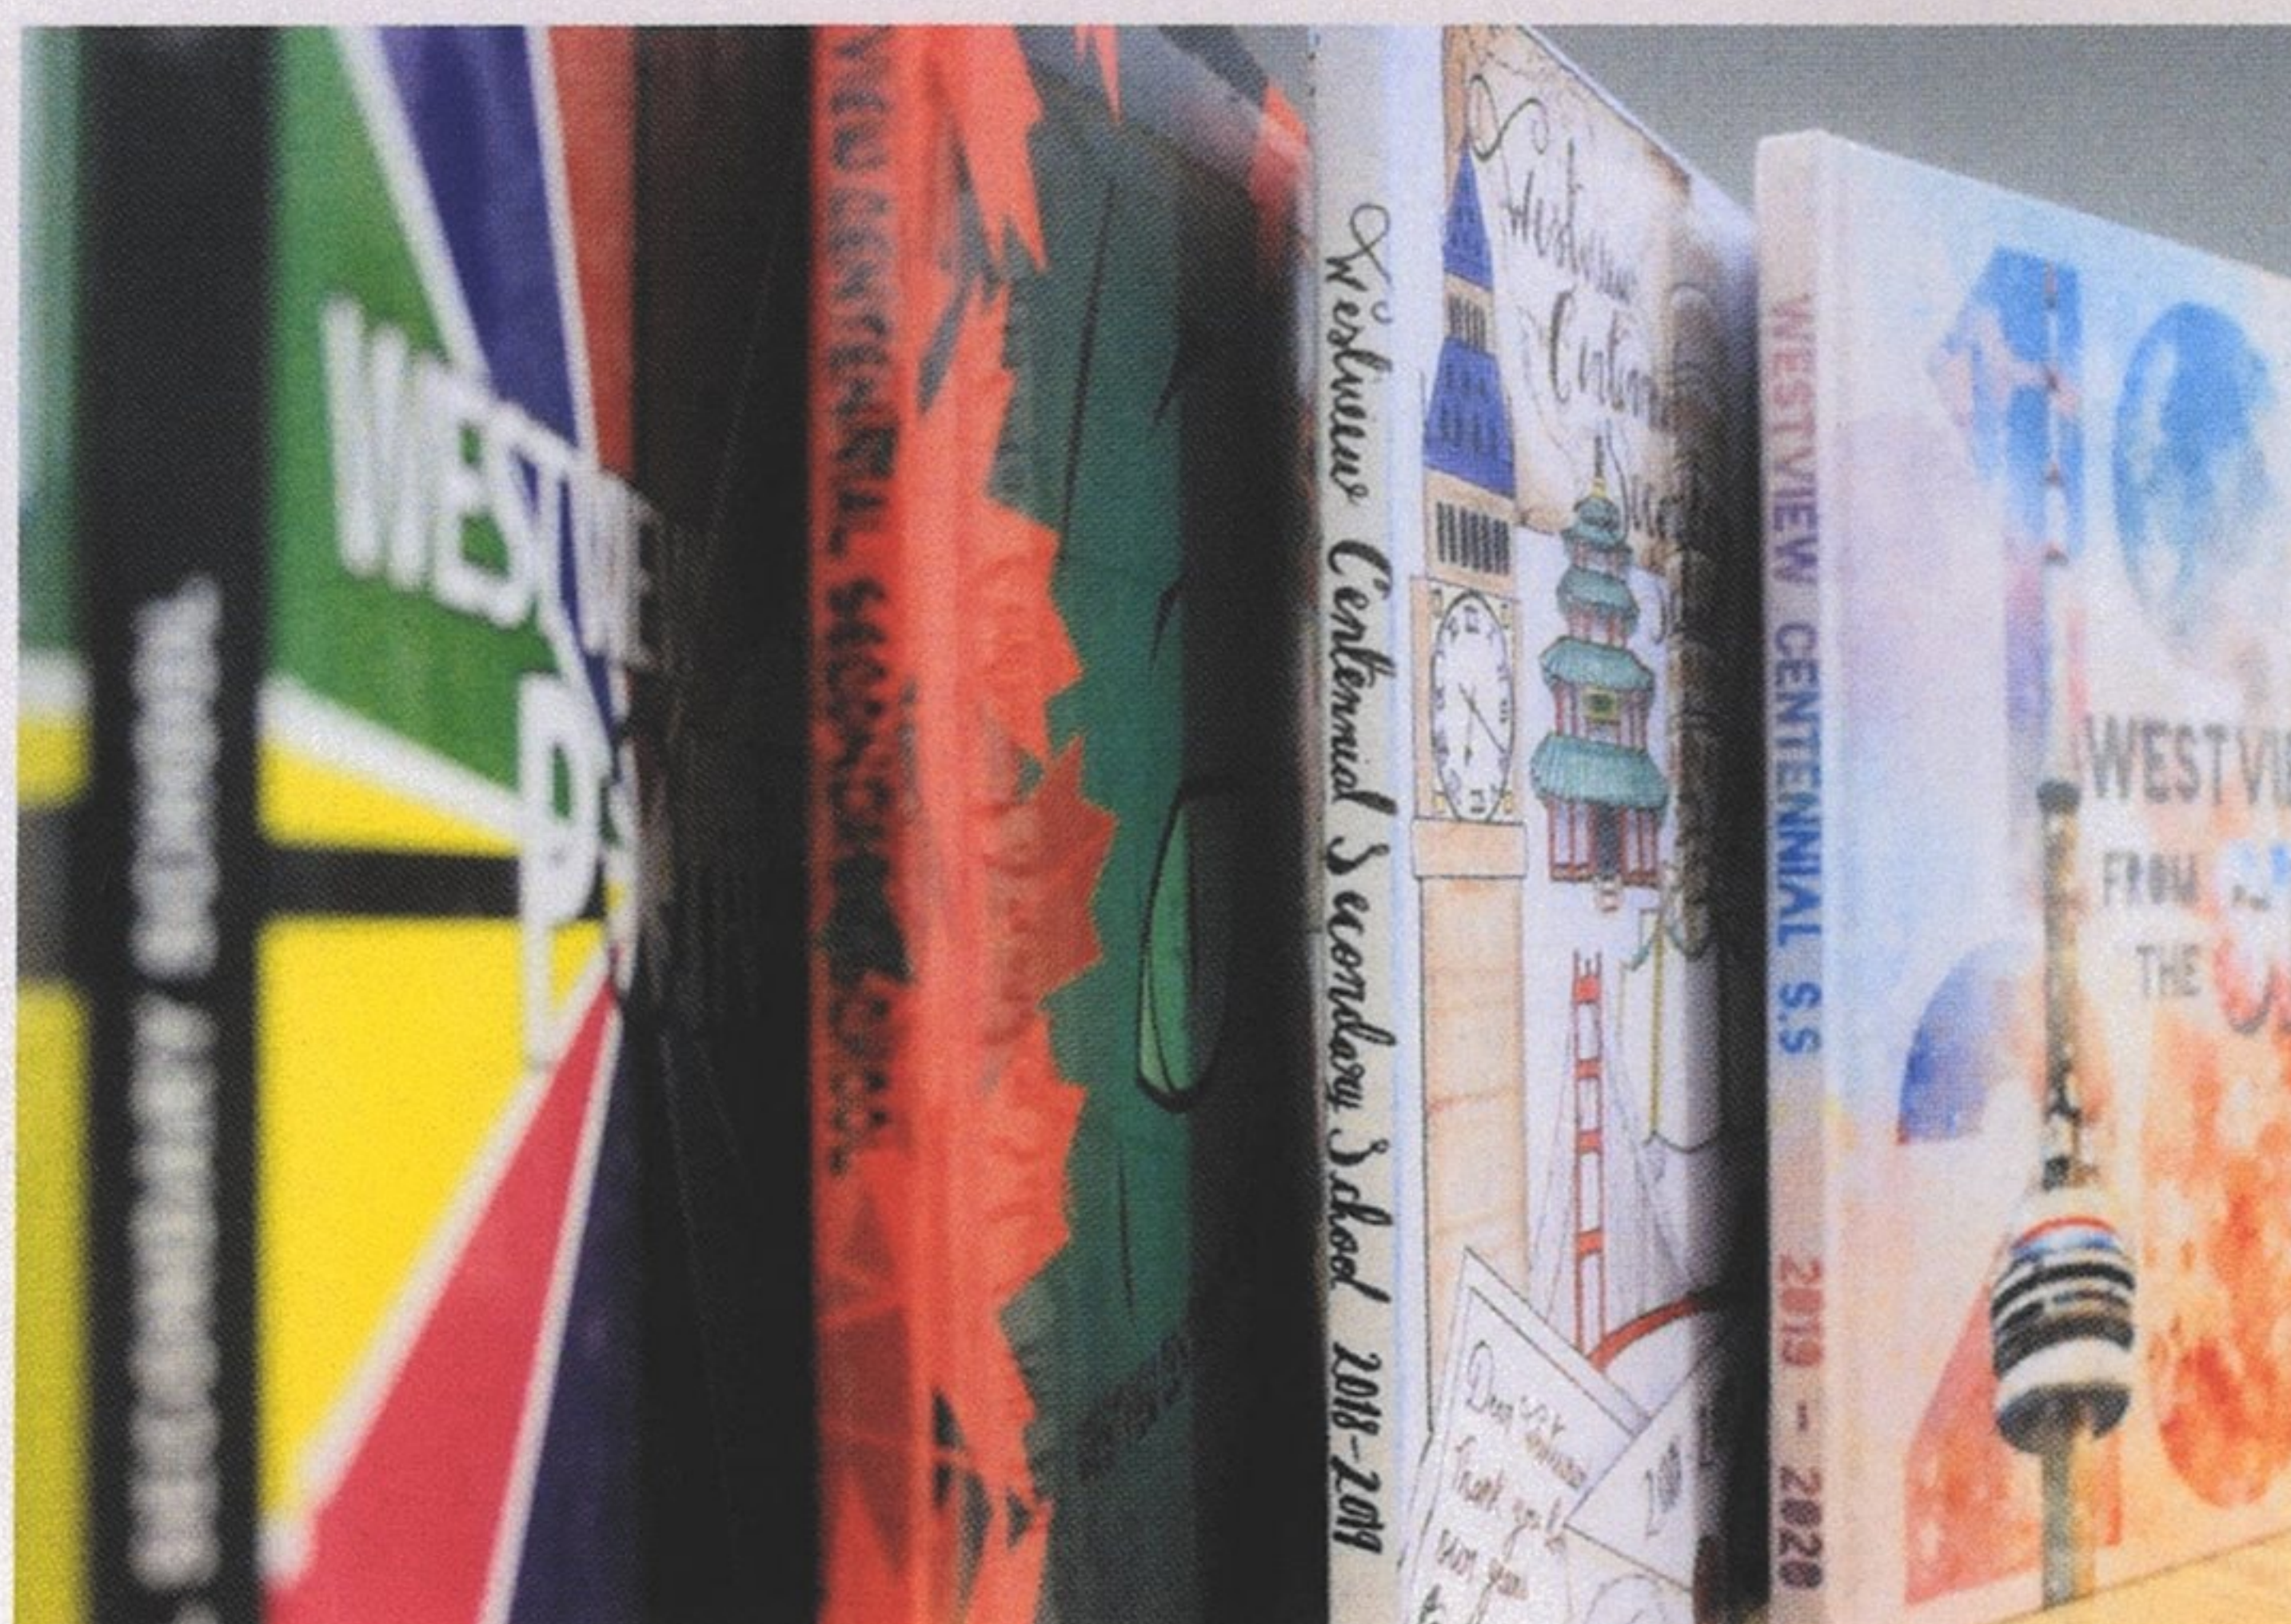

A time machine in a book.

For many people, yearbooks mean memories and events that mark the lives of many students, and some even consider that high school is where they define themselves as people and where they find their philosophies of life. We asked current Westview principal and former yearbook teacher, Mr. Gala, why a yearbook is important and what makes it special. This is what he had to say: "If you get a lot of people that are getting that kind of life changing experience in high school, then for me it becomes very important to document that experience, and high school yearbooks do that. Former yearbook class student, Tyshawn Grant describes his experience working on the yearbook: "I like making things look good so I used my eye for design and artistic experience to do what I think was an amazing job".

The goal isn't to live forever but to create something that will.

While other students are focused on other kinds of courses, the digital arts class offers you to be a part of something lasting, something that will be immortalized, something that will perhaps be treasured by many students years later, the yearbook. "Also, as someone who is graduating this year, I want to be content with what I will be looking at and showing it my kids in the future, and also have my friends and peers to feel the same way and see how much we've grown." said Tyshawn Grant. You may not think the yearbook is a big deal right now, but there are people who would pay a lot of money just to have a single copy of their high school yearbook. All the memories that a single book can contain are incredible.

Digitizing who we are ...

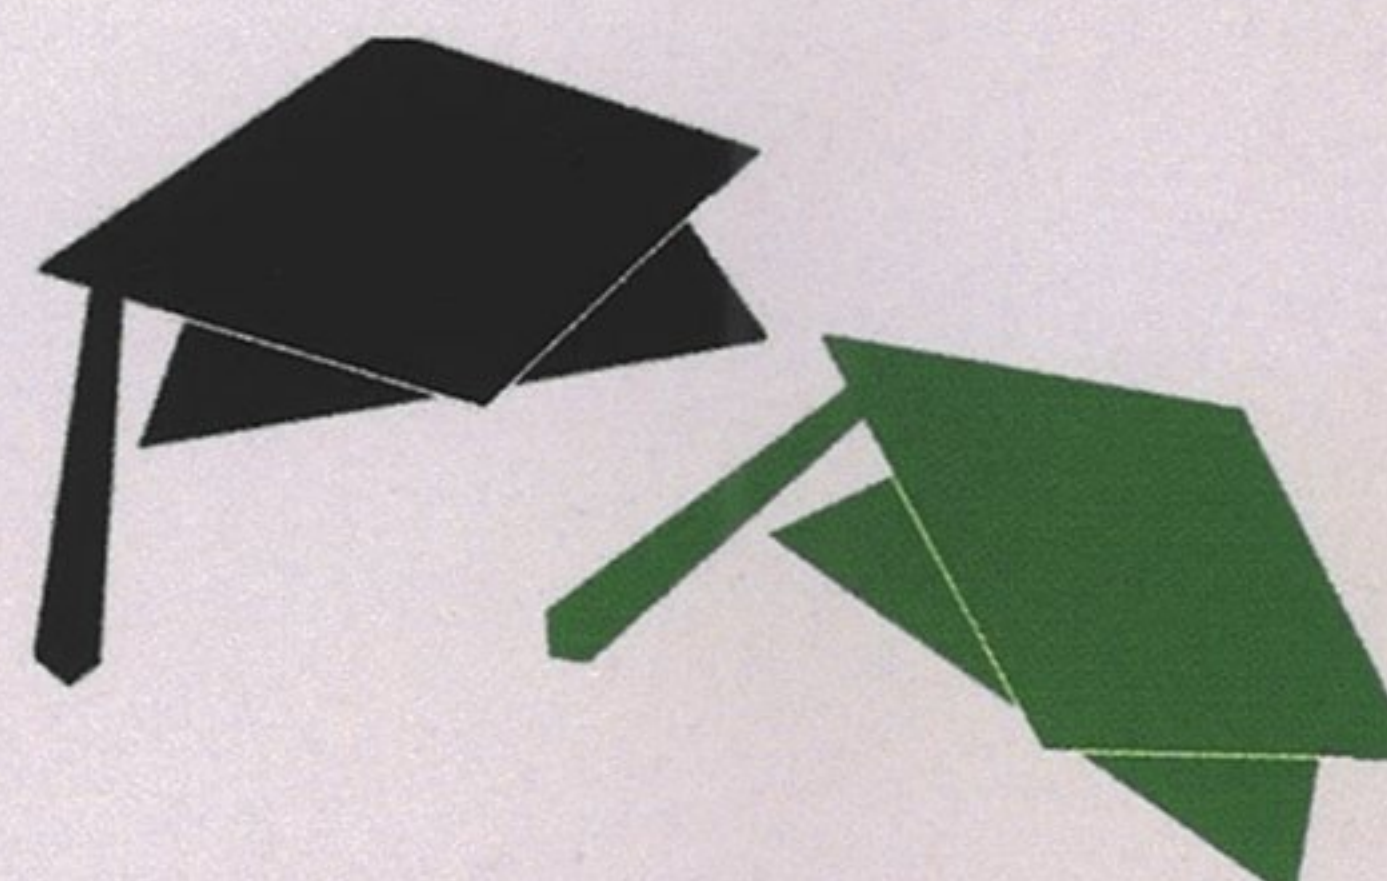

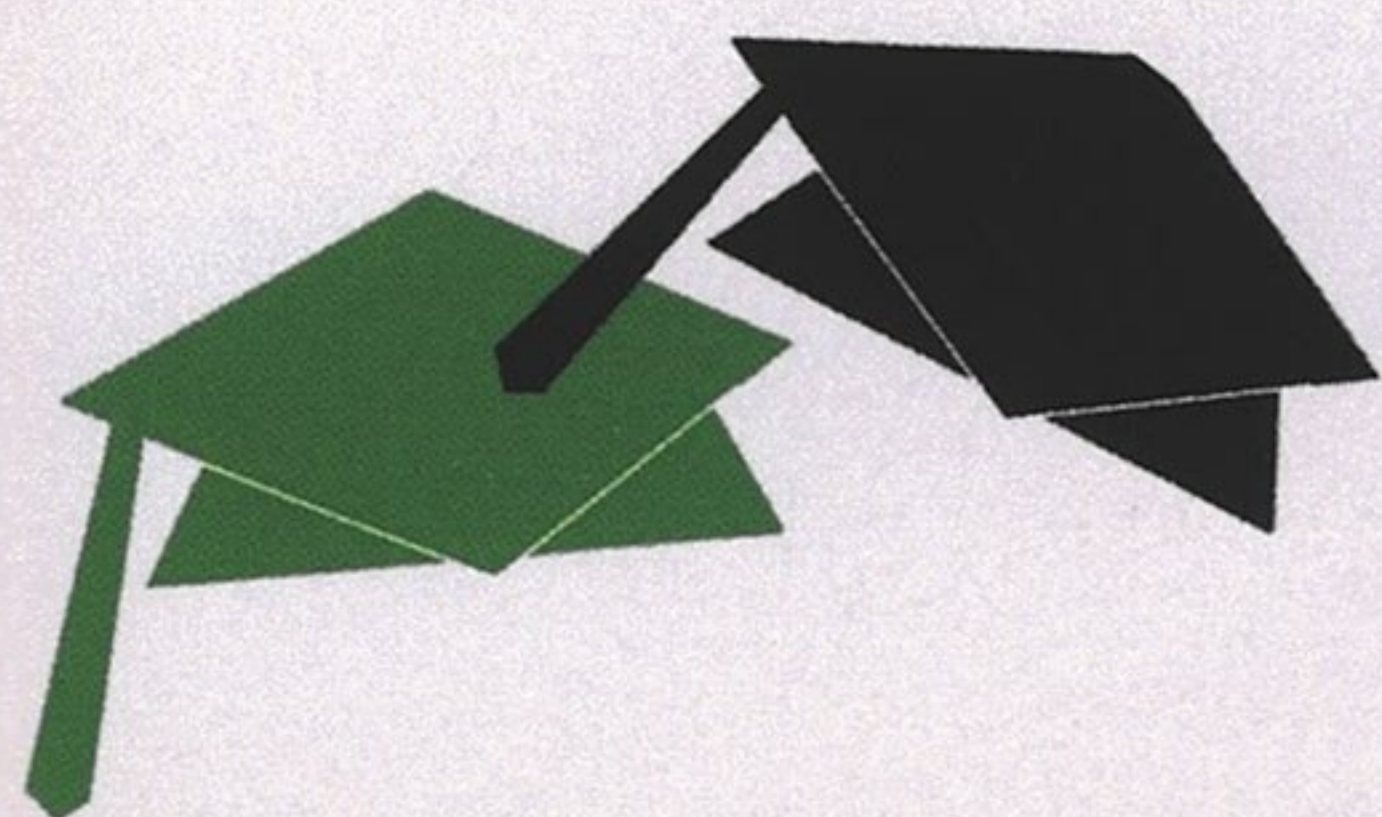

The administration is in the process of putting all yearbooks from past years online, "We are actually in a process to digitize all the yearbooks that have been produced at Westview, as well as other momentos, other things that signify who we are at Westview" said Mr. Gala. The reason for this project was that a former student, Bill Waicus, who graduated from Westview volunteered to carry out this project.

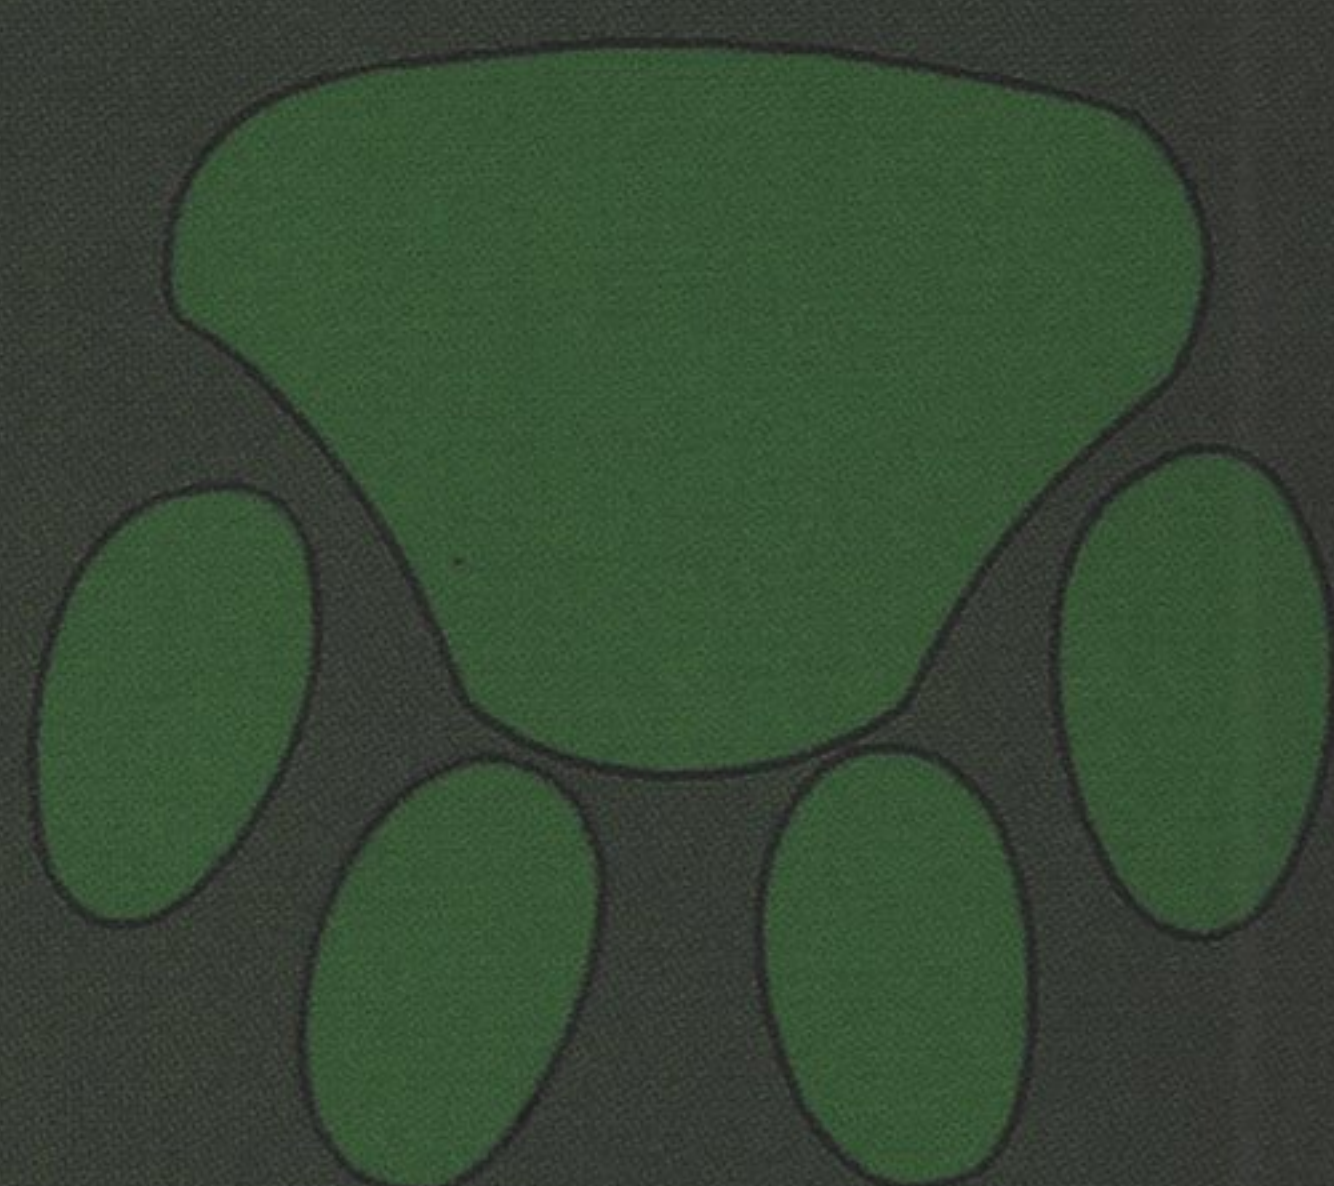

Alumni and school archivist, Mr. Bill Waicus

Mr. Waicus states, "In 2010, while participating in the pre-planning for Westview's 50th anniversary, the artefacts in the schools Archive Room fascinated me. Three years later, with the enthusiastic support of the school's principal, Monday Gala, I started digitizing 45+ yearbooks, hundreds of photos, documents and trophies. The entire online archival collection can be found here: archive.org/details/@westviewcentennial"

NEWCOMERS

Immigrant students at Westview

Story by Tranace Walker

Below: Newcomers lunch in the library.

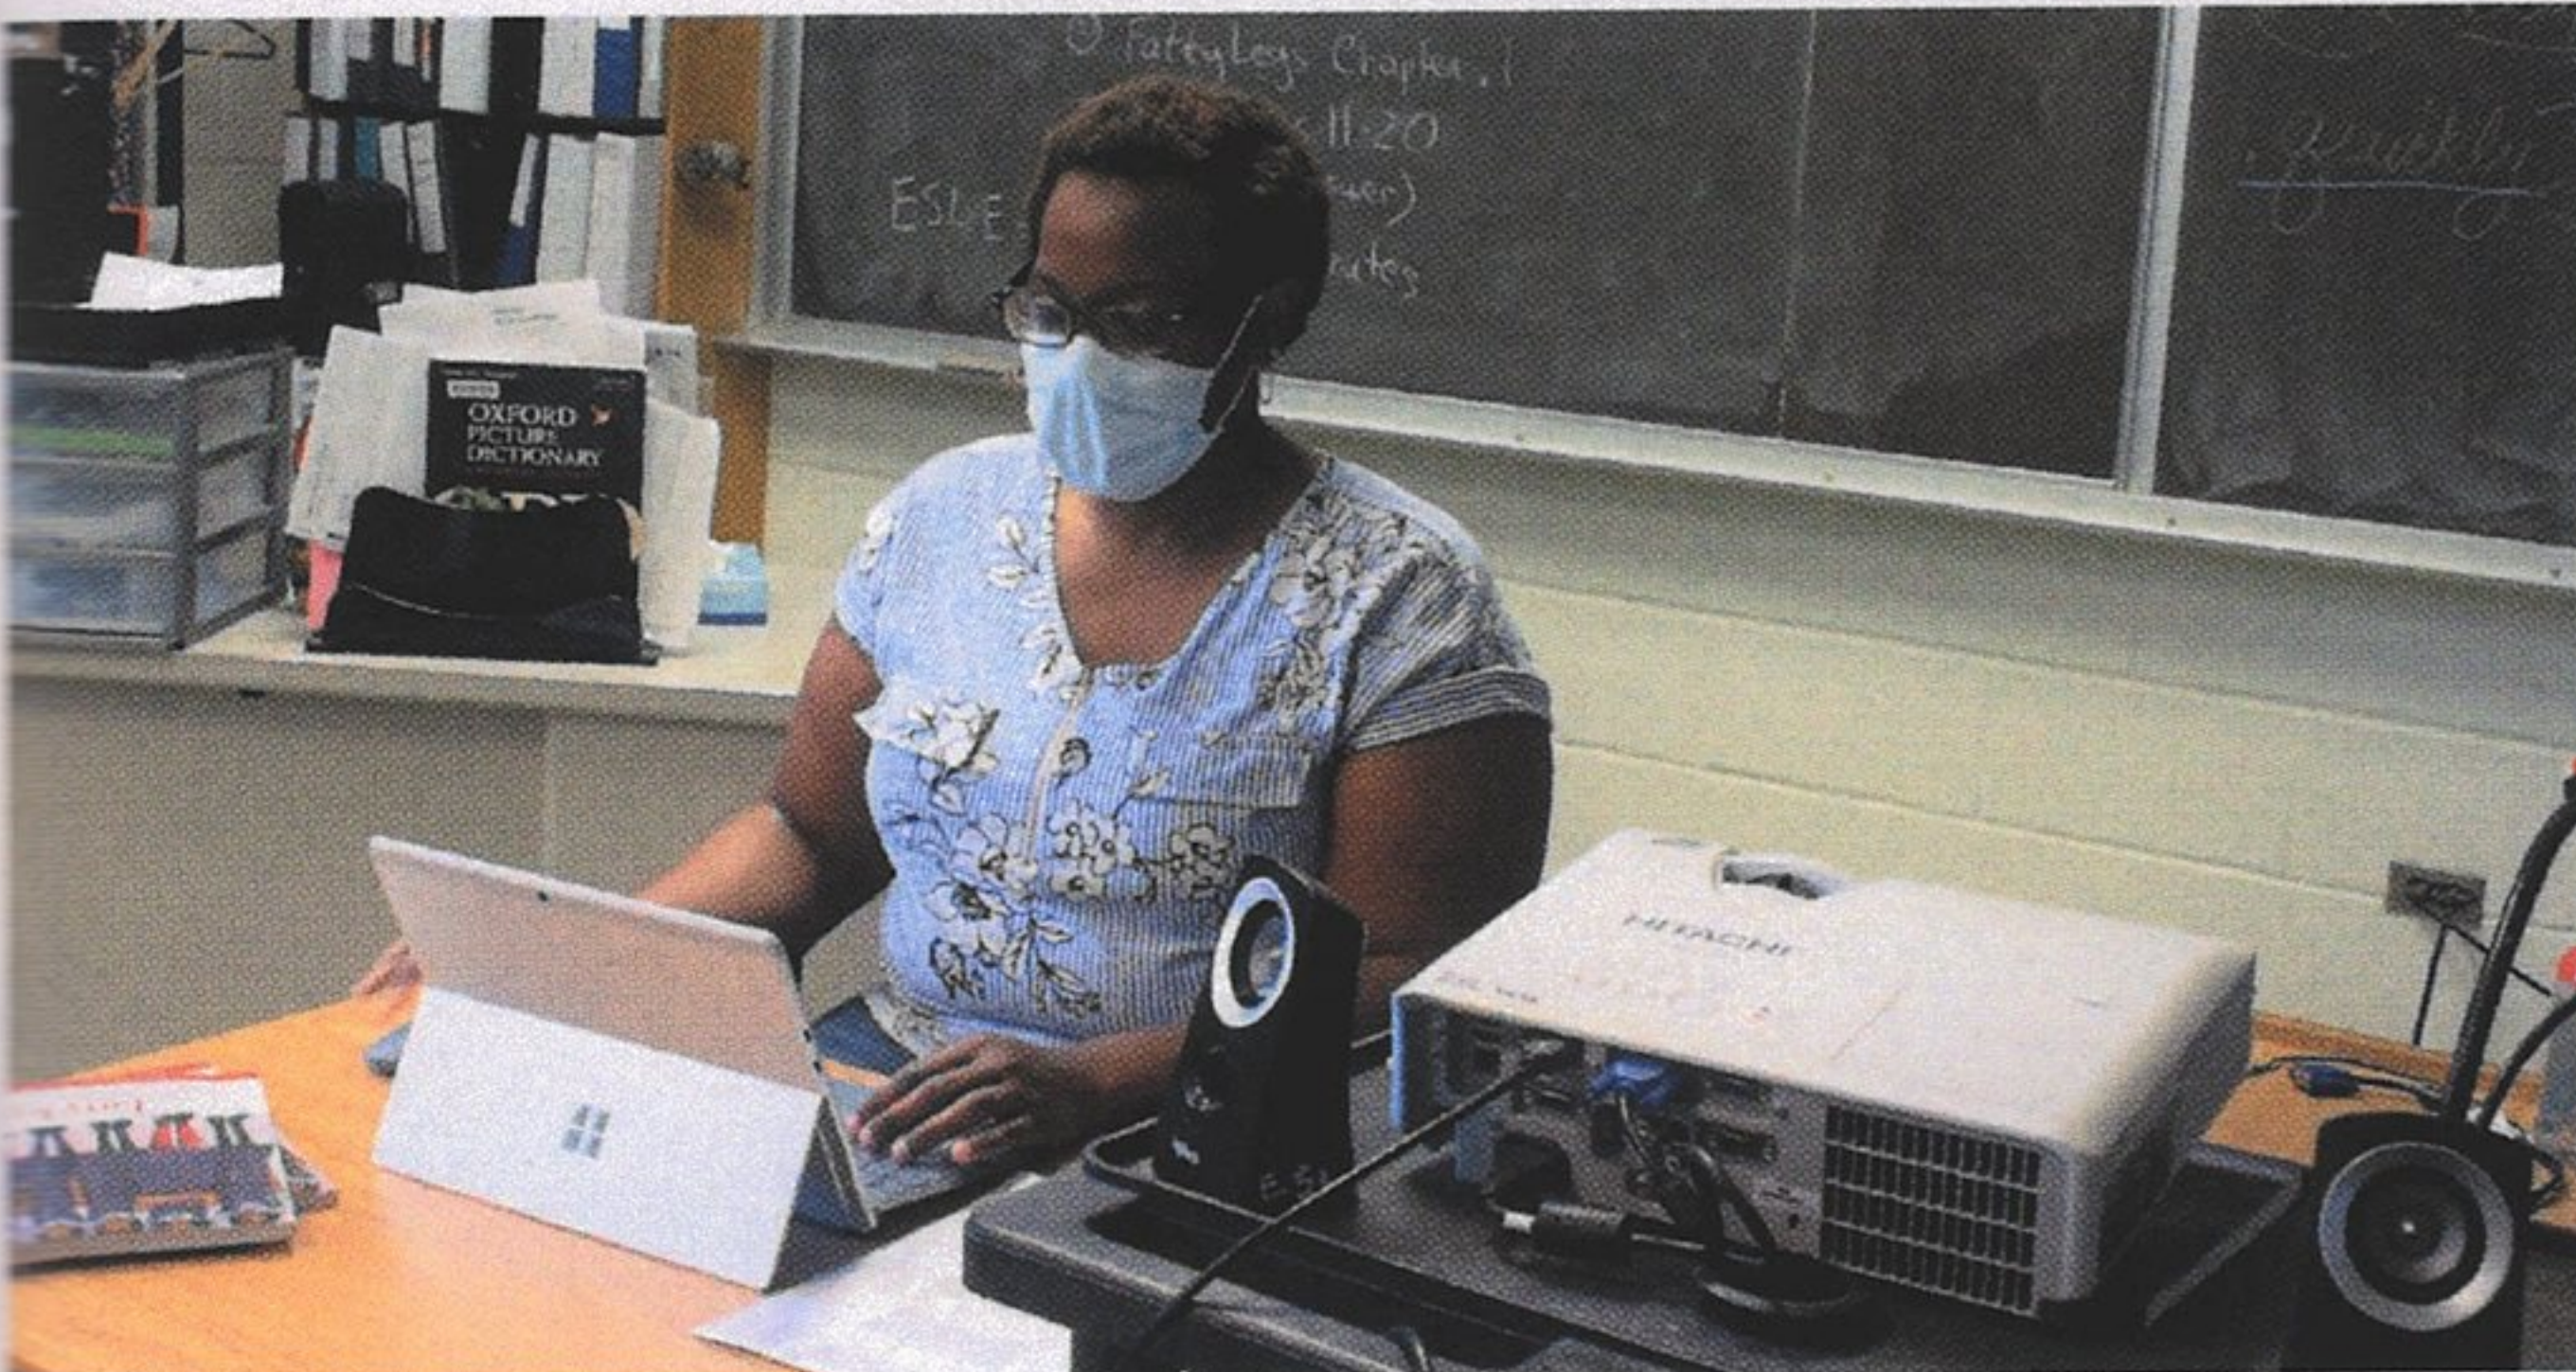

Over the years, the school has welcomed newcomers with open arms. The head of the ESL department and also a guidance counselor, Ms. Moro started her teaching career in 2010. In February 2020, she became a guidance counselor, where she started to work with newcomers to Canada. The school had about thirty- five new students of which ten went through ESL. Ms. Moro said " For me the biggest joy is that seeing students make connections with others through devices like, google translate... I have seen just this year alone students... came in, they did not speak more than a couple words of English and now, they are running the halls speaking in English with their friends and they started by using google translate".

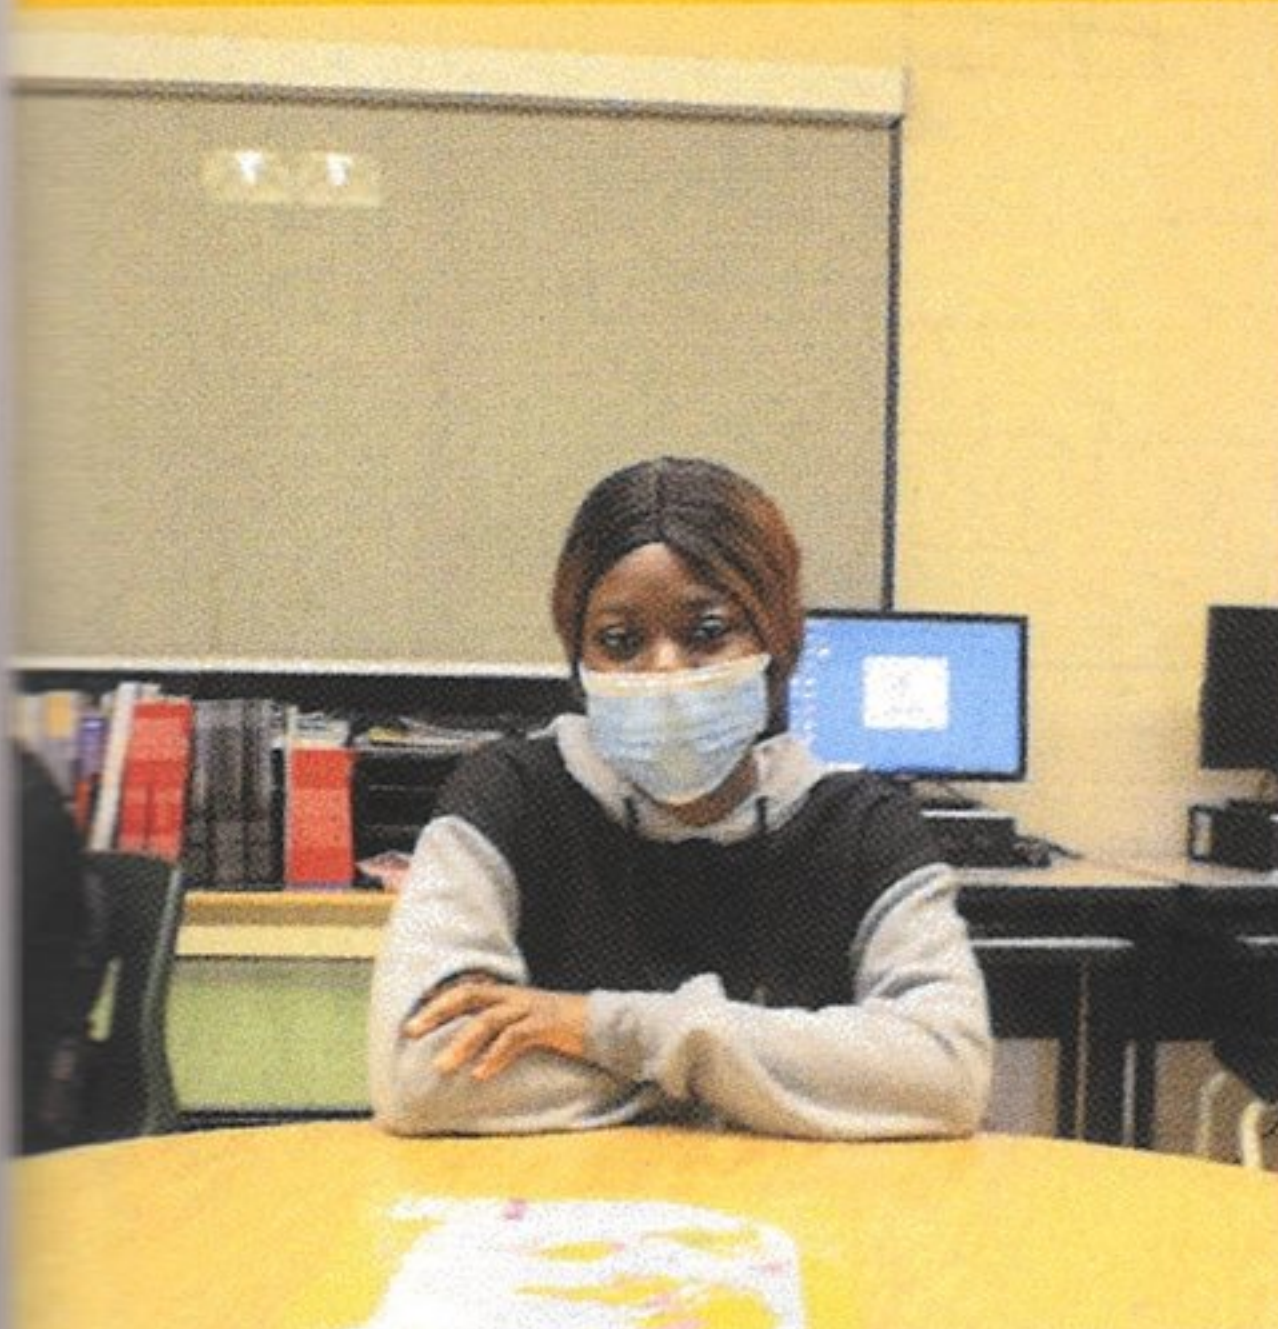

Dashawn, a non-ESL student from Jamaica, who has been in Canada for nine months said, "When I first started school, it was different but a little difficult because of the new school system that had to adjust to". He also stated "Being at a new school in a new country can be hard due to culture shock and not knowing what to expect". Dashawn believes that newcomers can adjust and that they will make it if they try.

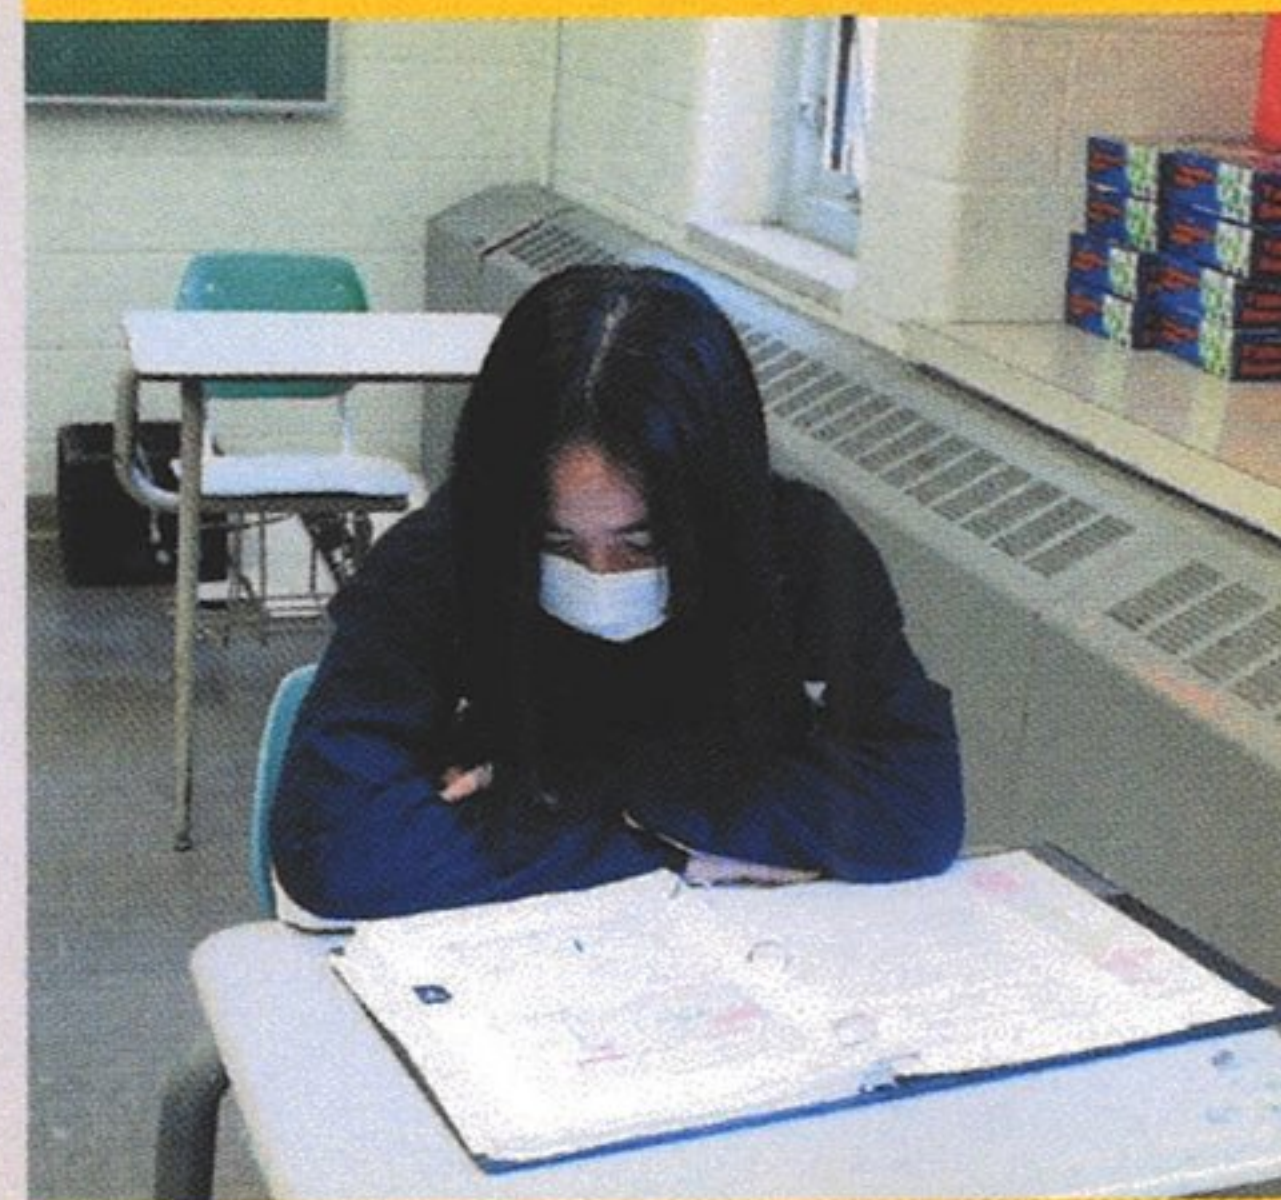

Ms. Briscoe, an ESL and Science teacher, moved to Canada when she was just eight years old from Jamaica. She got her ESL qualifications and is now an ESL teacher and this is her first year at Westview. There are five levels in ESL (A-E) and when a student becomes proficient in their reading and writing, they move to the next level. Ms. Briscoe said that she was teaching in Northern Quebec where students were trilingual. "The students have their first language Cree, their second language French and then another language which is English and I realized that even though English was not their first language, they were not considered ESL, but I need to approach my teaching as if they were ESL". Ms. Briscoe advises students "to take it one day at a time".

As the author of this story and as a newcomer myself, when I first started at Westview, I too had challenges with the school system, but eventually I adjusted and achieved my goals. My advice to newcomers is to try and try again, make each day your "masterpiece."

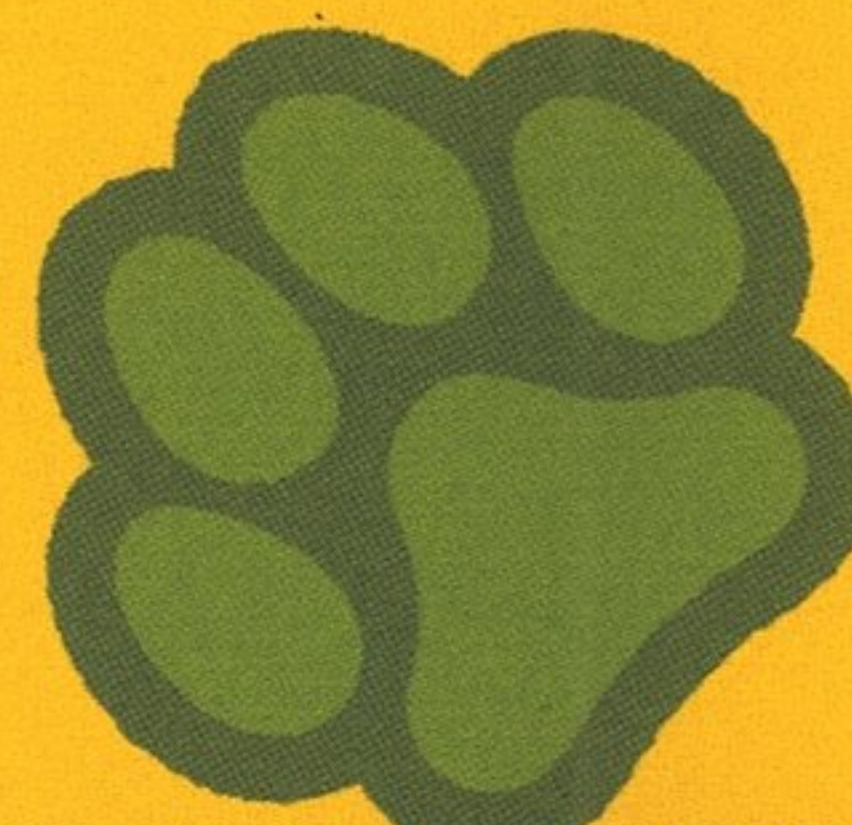

ESL

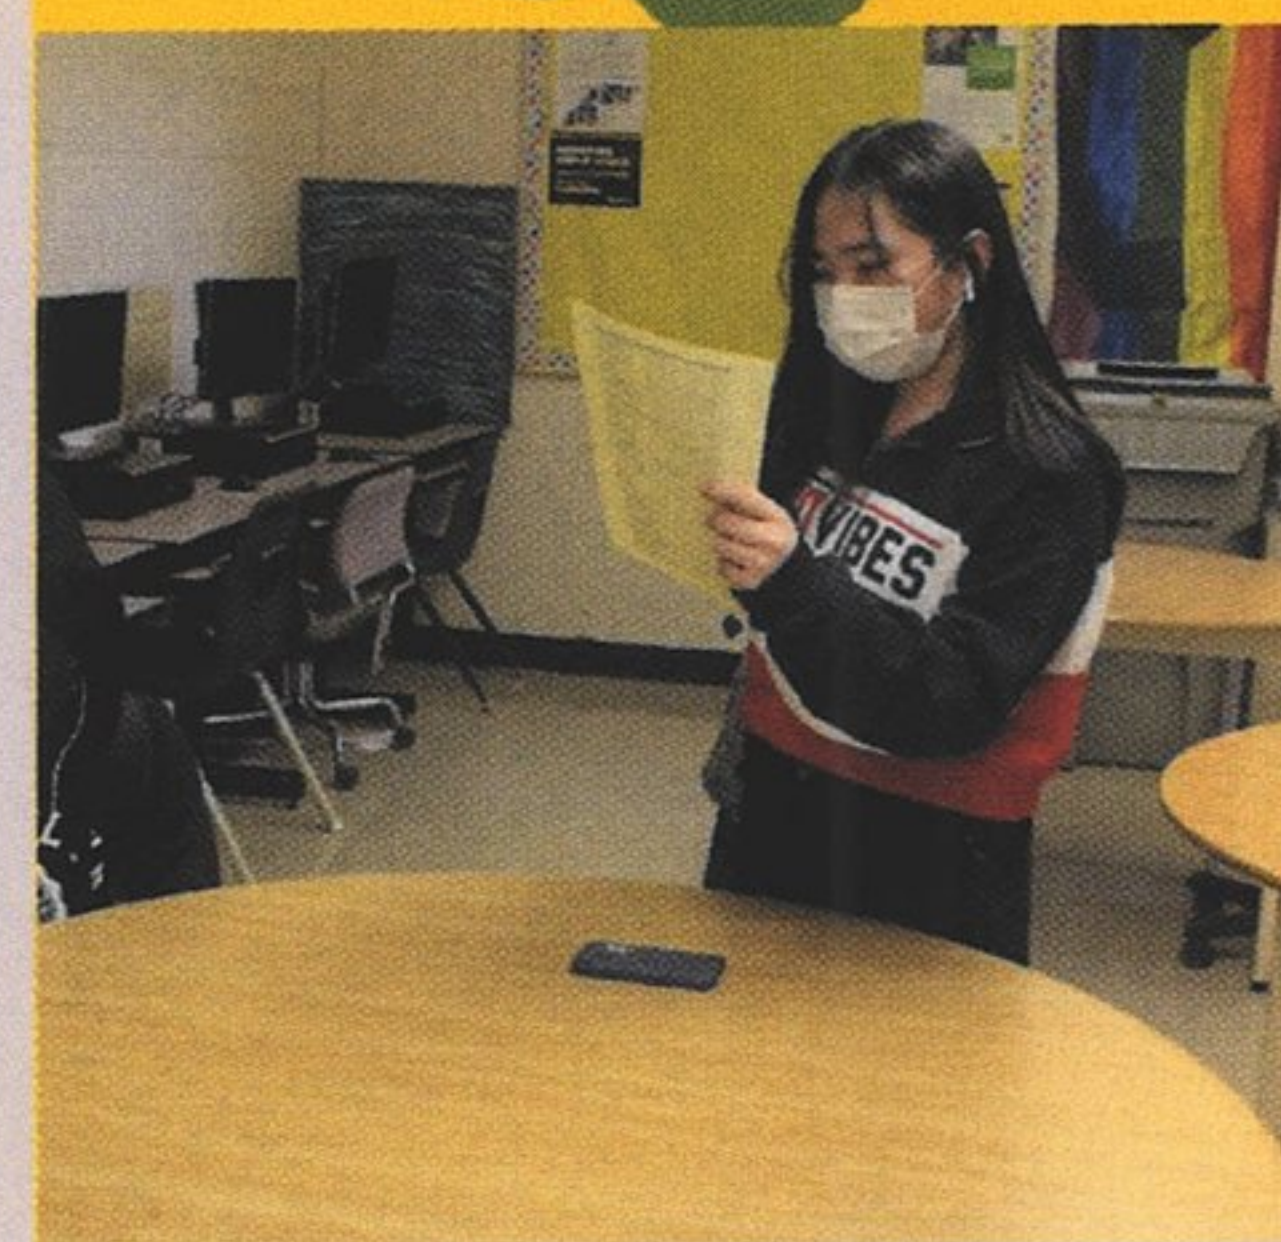

Rina, an ESL student, from Cambodia who has been here for four months said that, "The first time was so difficult for me because I didn't know anything, but now it's okay because I have friends who help me and understand the Canadian way of life". Rina believes that newcomers, whether ESL or not get a lot of support from other students and teachers. Rina encourages ESL students to "try".

Newcomers in action.

Ms. Moro said "I truly believe that we never ever forget the people that help us when you first come to a new country".

FINISH HIM. Seriously You've Been Talking There Like An Hour Just Kill Him (Kill Him Already)

I recently watched "The Dark Knight Rises" on Netflix, and it was genuinely epic seeing Batman battle Bane for the heart of Gotham; overall a great film, but one issue that stuck out to me while watching was Batman's first confrontation with Bane. Where Bane, to put it, layman's terms, beats the crap out of Batman and has him pretty much dead to rights, and once he's dead, his and Ra's Al Ghul's plan to destroy Gotham can go off without a hitch. Yet, for some reason, he lets Batman go. Later in the film, when Batman confronts Bane again, he rightly asks him why Bane didn't just kill him, and Bane replies, "You don't fear death. You welcome it. Your punishment must be more severe." And I'm sitting on my couch like, wait for what?. Then after that, (spoilers) when Ra's Al Ghul is revealed to be Talia, and she has Batman dead to rights, she goes on a monologue about revenge is best done slowly, which gives the heroes time to disable the bomb Bane had set to destroy the city and defeat them. And the movie still wants me to believe that Dumb and Dumber over here managed to secretly infiltrate Gotham with an army and nearly destroy the city? Sure, Nolan, sure.

This is part of the "Kill Him Already" trope in fiction where the villain could have the hero with one foot in the grave but for some cosmic reason can't kill him. This trope is usually explained because the story would be much shorter if they killed the hero. The hero usually has to win by the end; you know, even considering killing Batman is tantamount to comic book blasphemy. But is it too much to ask to come up with another better reason than needing an hour-long to give Ted a talk about why he won, and the hero is doomed? When will writers finally kill this trope?

THREE WORST TROPES IN FICTION

By: Favoaz Badru

Totally Realistic and Believable Female Character (Most Writers Are Male)

In any literary piece of fiction, men's description of women in a nutshell is "Long golden blonde hair with mesmerizing deep blue eyes. She was wearing a tight shirt and bottom-cut jeans. Stacy's clothes revealed an hourglass figure nearly as captivating as her ample, full, shapely breast billowed through her immensely, adding to her already very womanly form. No John could stare at Stacy all day long." (I could feel the slime coming off my fingers as I typed this).

Yeah, it's that bad, but what can you expect when men are so over-represented in the writing industry? The "Most Writers Are Male" trope arises as males' voices are thus more represented in media than females' voices, leading to the audience often being assumed as a majority male. As a result, we tend to have stories with a primarily male main cast with one to two women thrown in there. And since most of these men can't seem to grasp the female's voice if their lives depended on it, most of these female characters are pigeonholed into set stereotypes or are only there to serve a specific purpose to the plot. This is where we get our laundry list of female character tropes. Highlights include the ever classic "Damsel In Distress, your tried & true "Girl Next Door," the horror staple "Final Girl," and the trendiest one out now, the "I'm Not Like Other Girls." Can we please get more female writers in the industry or at least make it illegal to use the ample and supple to describe any human body part ever, please.

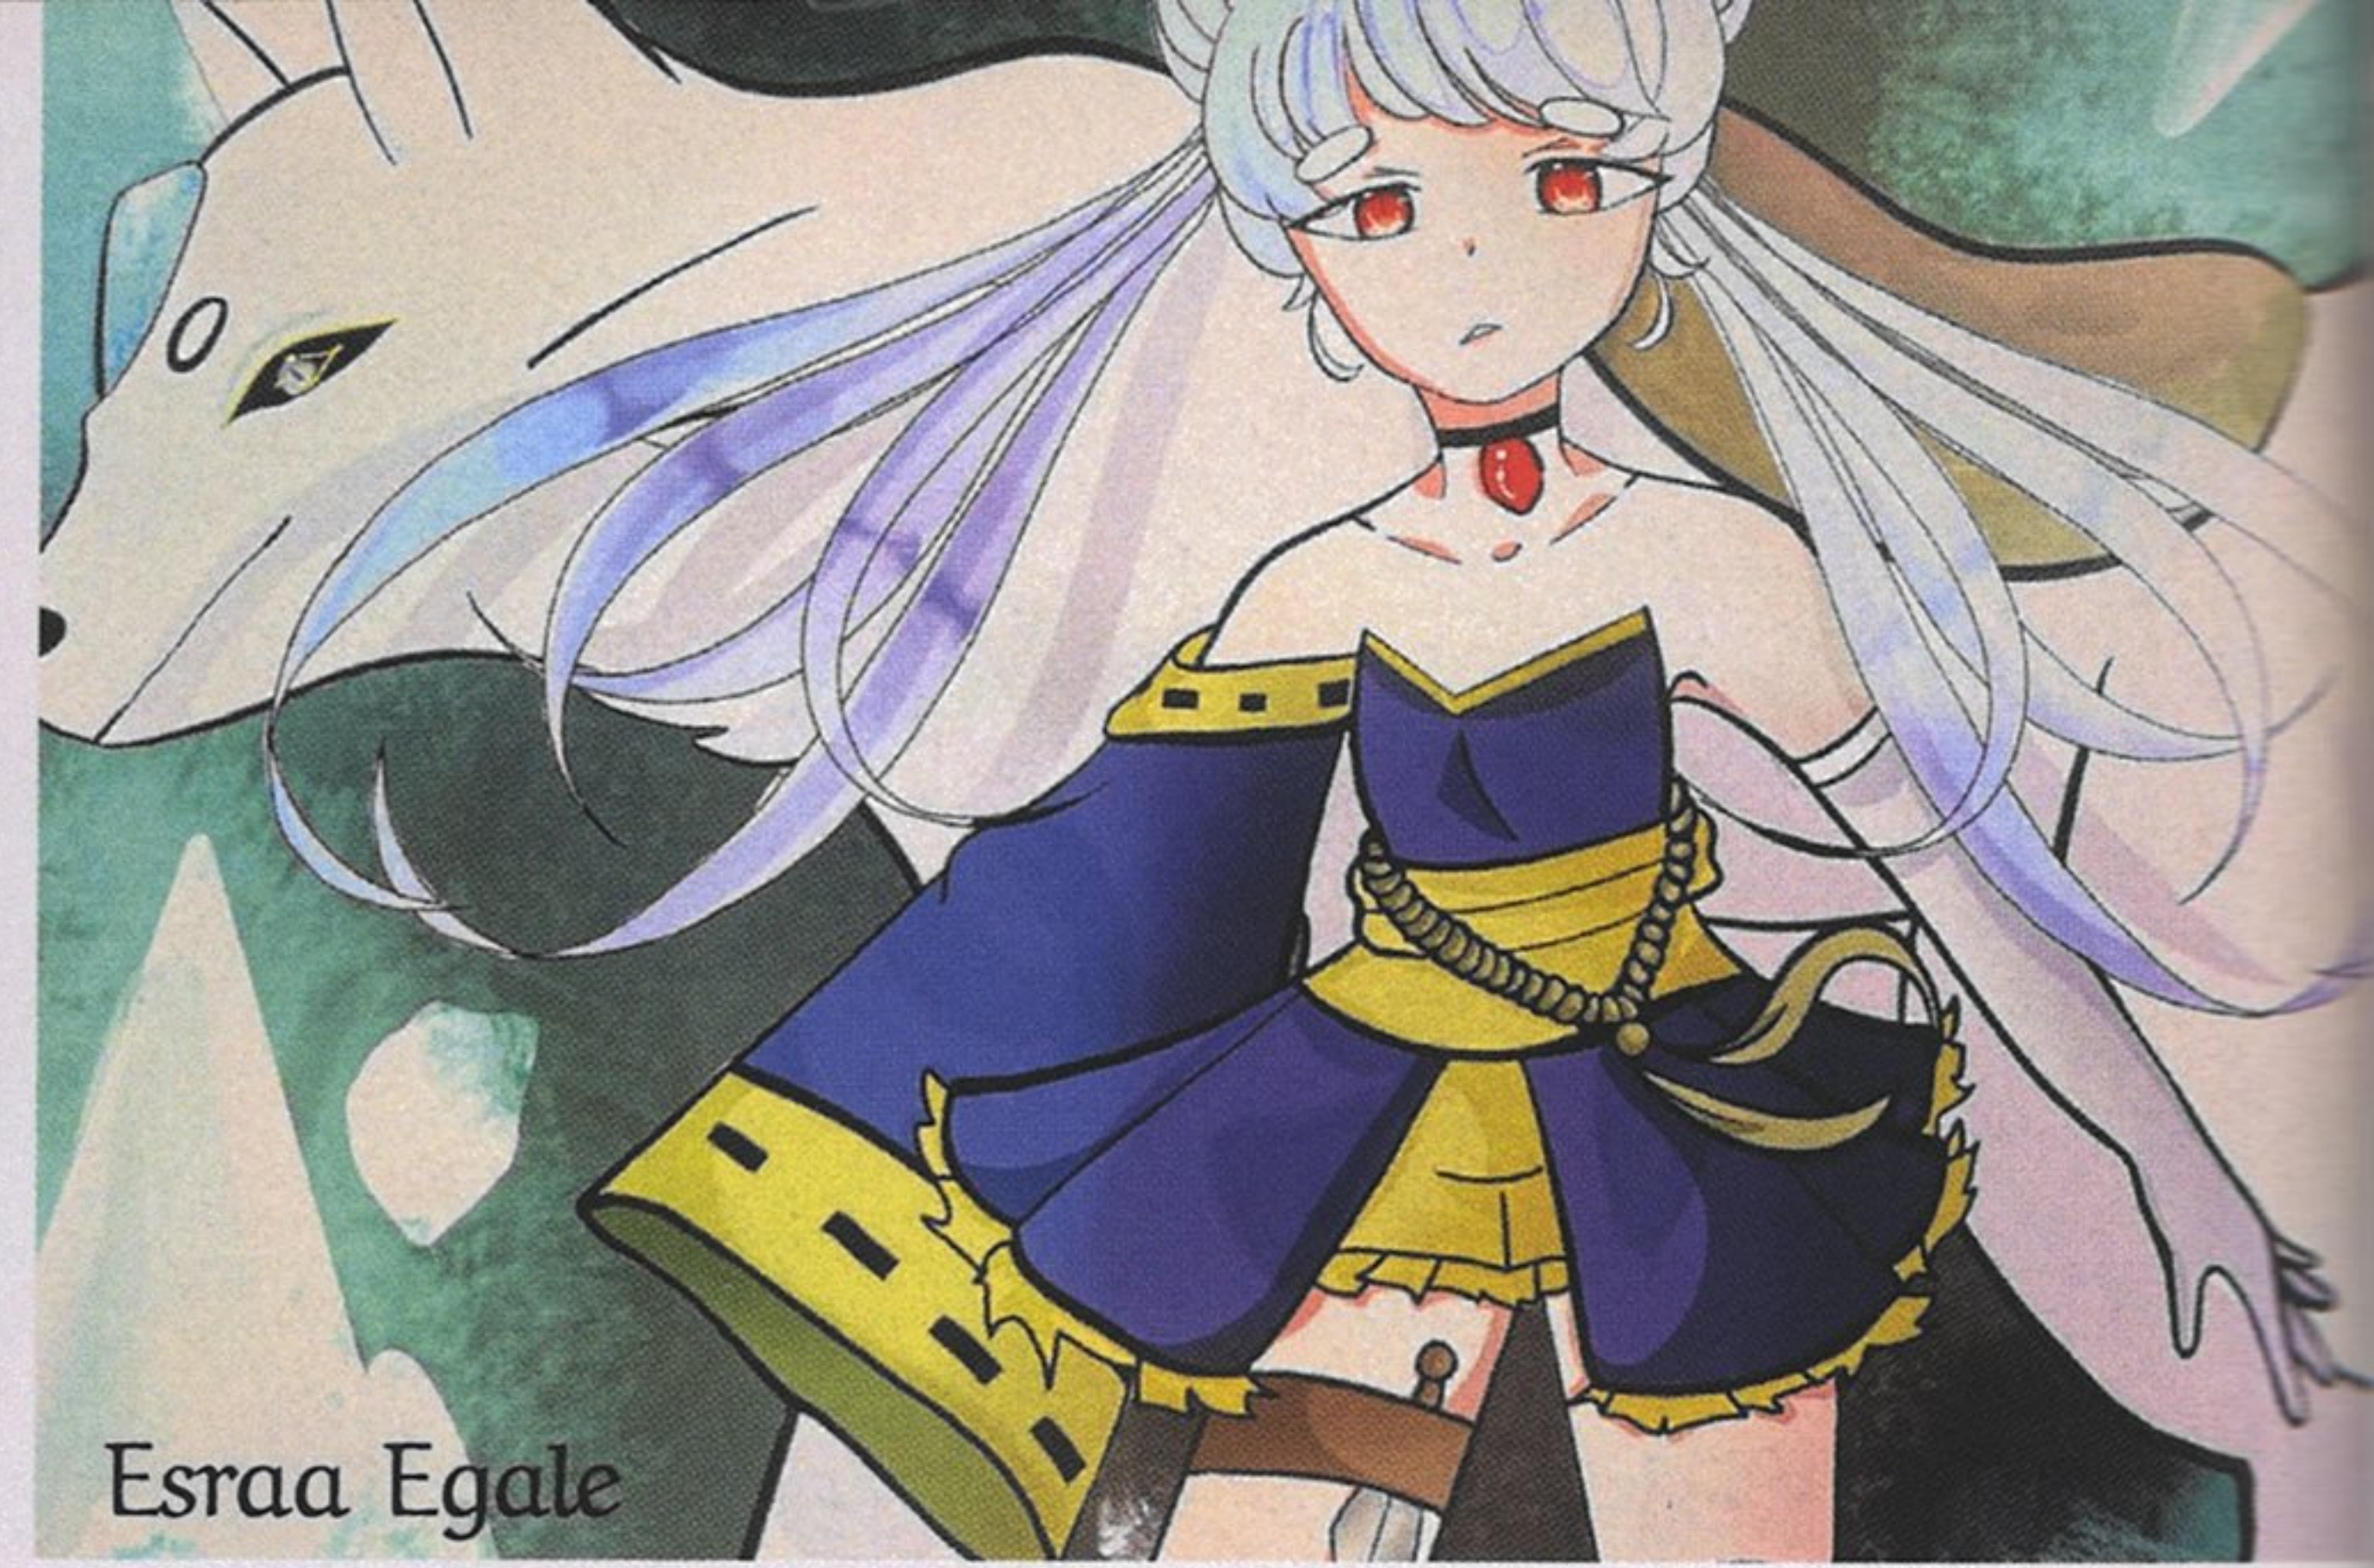

Yeah He Murdered 10 People But Did You Know He Lost His Toy Train At 12 (Overly Tragic Villains)

Ahh, the tragic villain. Society or someone has done them wrong and left them no choice to turn to a life of villainy. This character was made into a villain either by circumstances beyond their control or was good but forced to commit a necessary evil that drove them down a path of darkness. The audience sees the tragedy of this character's condition and thus sympathizes with them and despises whatever their misdeeds might be. Now I have nothing against tragic villains by themselves. An excellent heartfelt backstory could add deep characterization and complexity to a villain; some of my favorite villains in fiction have vast amounts of tragedy surrounding them. No, my problem lies with the sheer amount of these characters today and their lack of care put into them. It's like everyone needs a woe-me-story whatever happened to our good old mustache-twirling villains.

The best example of this trope right now is Disney and their obsession with giving every one of their classic villains a revamped version of modern interpretation with a sob story as to why they're evil. Disney's first step in their quest to babyfie all their villains started with Maleficent in 2014 and extended to other Disney villain greats such as Cinderella's wicked stepmother and Gaston. The latest case has been with Disney's Cruella De Vil. Many fans know Cruella as the despicable fashion magnate from the animated movie "101 Dalmatians" whose disdain for dogs is rivaled by none. The film revolves around her wanting to skin the dalmatians to fashion herself a coat from their fur. The 2021 live-action movie aptly titled "Cruella" intended to answer the question as to what dark incident led her down this path; Both a movie and a question no one wanted or asked. Anywho, the vile, sinister, iniquitous secret behind her hatred for dogs is apparently because a pack of poorly CGI Dalmatians pushed her mother off a cliff. I repeat. Cruella wants to skin puppies alive because a group of dogs killed her mom when she was 10. I sincerely implore you to find the clip of this scene to experience the sheer absurdity of this scene. Why can't villains be evil?

INTERSECTIONS

This year, the senior dance class created a dance film for the tdsbCREATES Virtual Showcase: Intersections.

The piece, titled 'Breaking Through', was choreographed and performed by: Jennayah Banton, Stacey Ann Bogle, Riccia Bynoe-Molango, Johnneil Clarke, Becky Nosakhare & Kimoya Roper.

Our dance is about the struggle of facing barriers and the fight to break through them. Life is often about trying to break through mental barricades, and trying to free ourselves from things like stress, school, work, and especially the pandemic. We have tried our best to break out of this virus pandemic but it keeps pulling us right back, only to get worse. At first, we felt caged, mentally and emotionally, but now we were determined to stand up and break out of it, until at some point we can finally get the freedom we've always wanted. We see an intersection as a point when you encounter something or someone, in this case a barrier, as you go on your journey. Our piece captures the refusal to be stopped by barriers and the will to overcome. We want the audience to feel our pain and determination."

Technological innovation influences all areas of life, from the daily lives of individuals to the work of business and government, to interactions on a global scale. It helps meet basic human needs and provides tools for improving peoples lives and exploring new frontiers. The power, reach, and rapid evolution of technology places demands on society that require students to become technologically literate that is, able to understand, work with, and benefit from a range of technologies. Students need to acquire the technological skills and knowledge that will allow them to participate fully in a competitive global economy and to become responsible citizens in an environmentally vulnerable world. To succeed in today's society, students need to be effective problem solvers and critical thinkers, able to understand, question, and respond to the implications of technological innovation. For students who do not choose to pursue careers in technology, technological education can provide knowledge and skills that will enhance their daily lives, whether by enabling them to work on home renovations.

WILDCATS ARE BACK!!

Story by Kaneil Evans

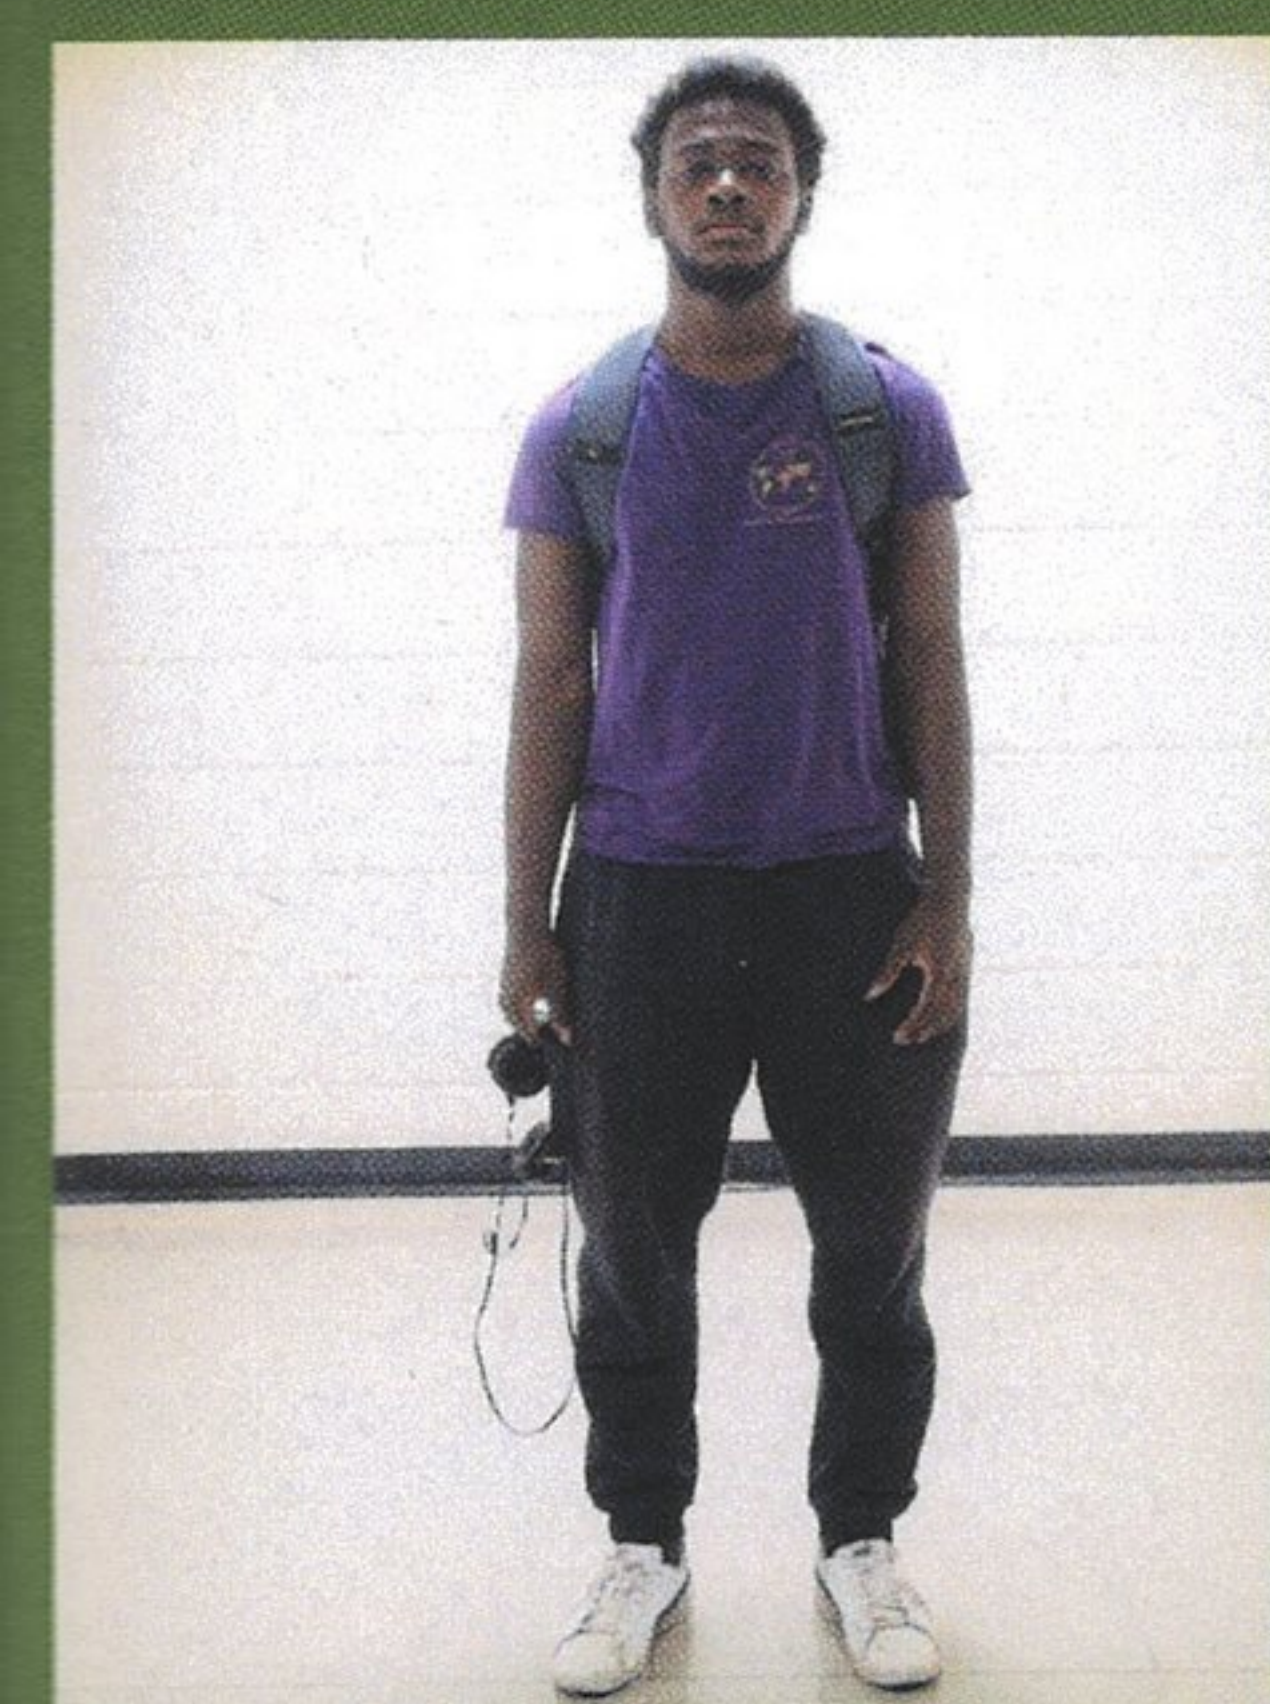

Basketball is one of the most popular sports in the school. But back in 2020 Covid-19 hit the world like a storm. Not only did the Toronto District School Board (TDSB) closed schools and required students to learn from home. 2021 saw schools beginning to reopen but with restrictions which included reducing classes to only two, making classes two hours long, cutting lunch break short and hybrid learning. In late 2021 the TDSB made the decision to reopen schools. The conditions required students to wear a mask at all times while in the building and to sanitize your hands. But the conditions did come with restrictions as well. Sports couldn't be played unless students wore a mask and close contact sports couldn't be played at all. This made it difficult for sports teams to even be formed. Only in February 2022 were close-contact sports able to be played again. Despite these conditions and restrictions the basketball teams rose up under the guidance of Senior and Junior basketball coaches, Mr. Blackwood and Mr. Paisley. "As the Senior boys basketball team started to practice they had to create a routine and their effort was automatic," said Mr. Paisley.

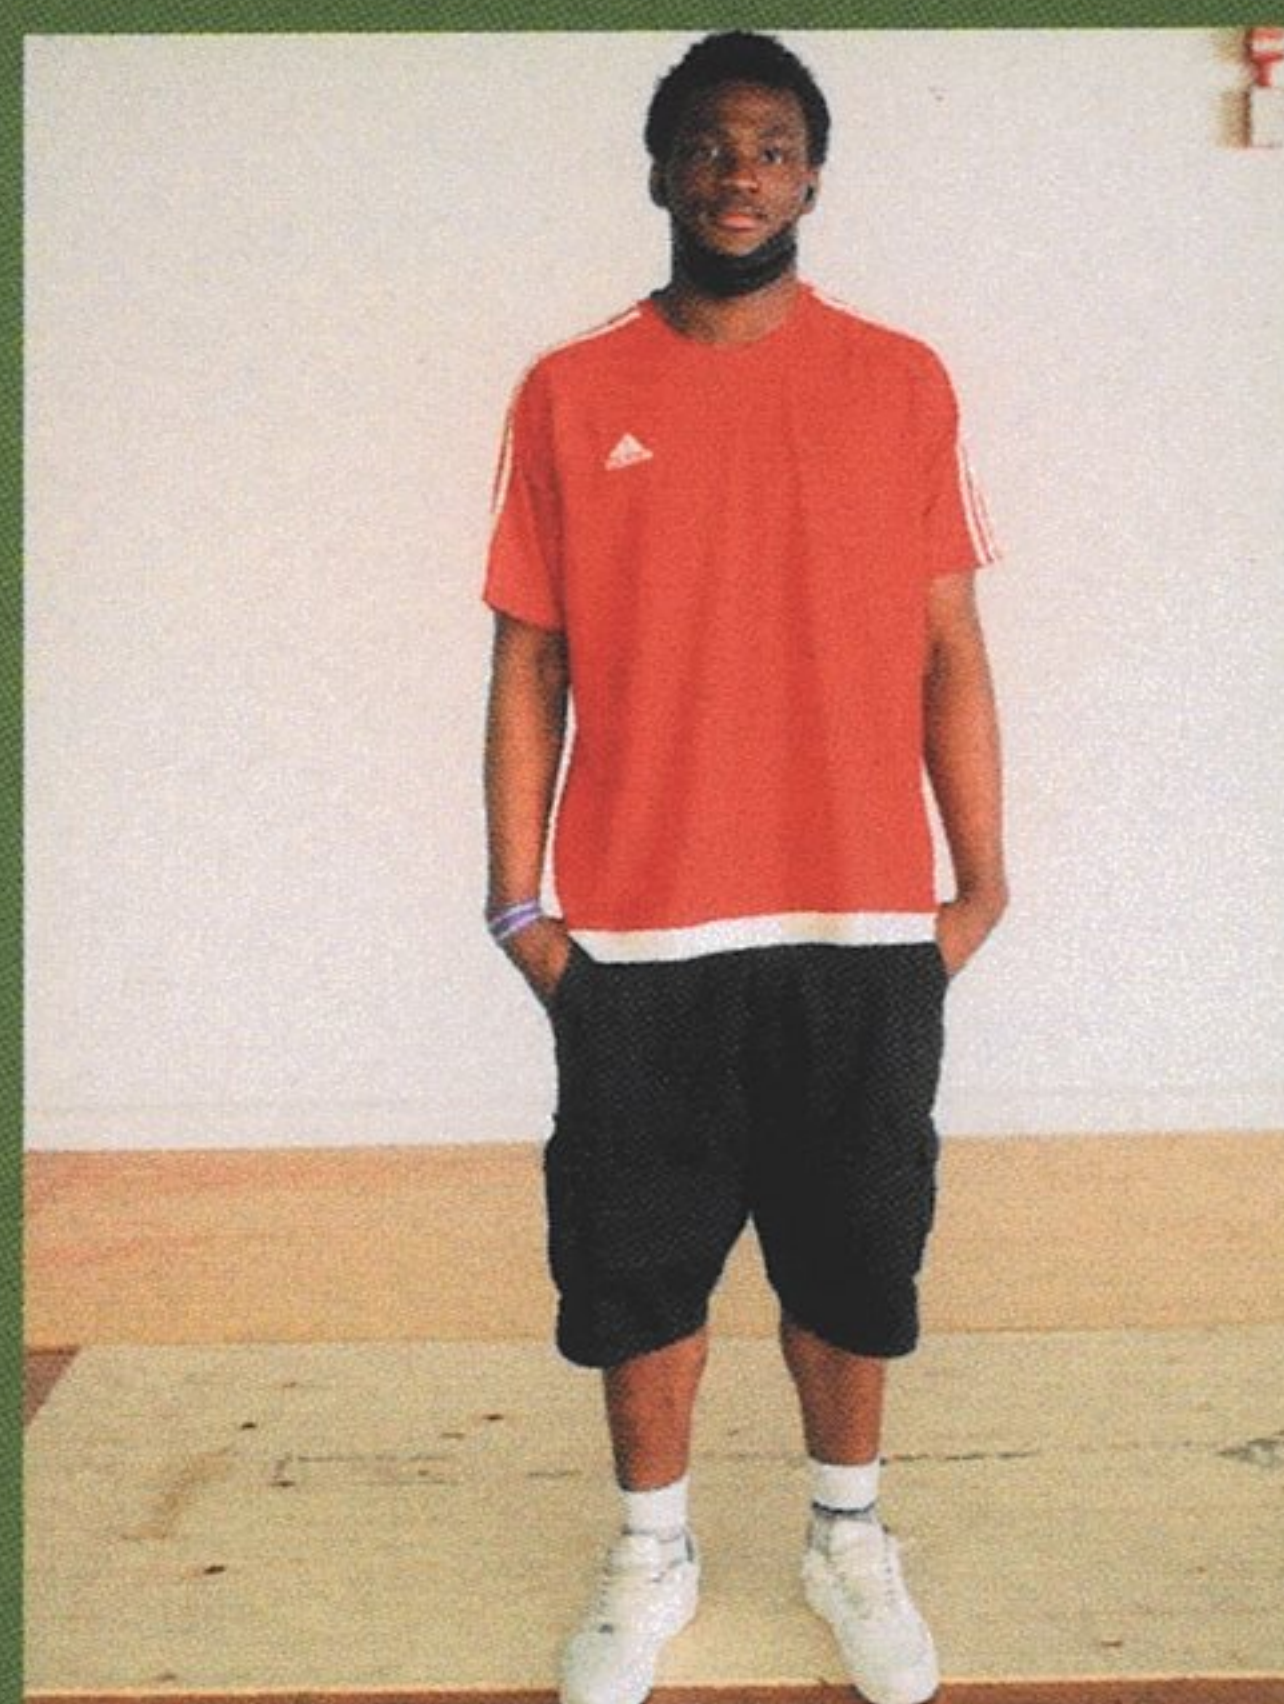

In early March, the Sr. and Jr. boys finally got to play their first game after almost two years of down time. "I couldn't really say I was rusty because I always tried to practice at the court near me," said Sr basketball player Joshua Shem. Senior teammate Obed Yeboah added, "But some players were nervous and or rusty even after all the practice they went through. But their high morale and overall motivation got them through their games. When going into the game I lost all my anxiety."

Eventually, all good things come to an end. The Senior boys basketball team lost two games in the playoffs, despite winning their previous games. Considering the time they didn't really get to play during quarantine they did their best even under these circumstances and should be proud of how far they've come. "It was such a condensed season, if we had more time to learn more on how each other plays I think the outcome would have been more different," said Mr. Blackwood. It would be difficult for any team to make headway when faced with such a short time in which to practice and learn new plays.

TikTok's influencers change how we view the world

TikTok is a unique place where culture starts and where creativity knows no bounds – where anyone can discover, create, and share content they love. In 2021, over 1 billion people turned to TikTok to be entertained, find and share their joy with others, and learn new things.

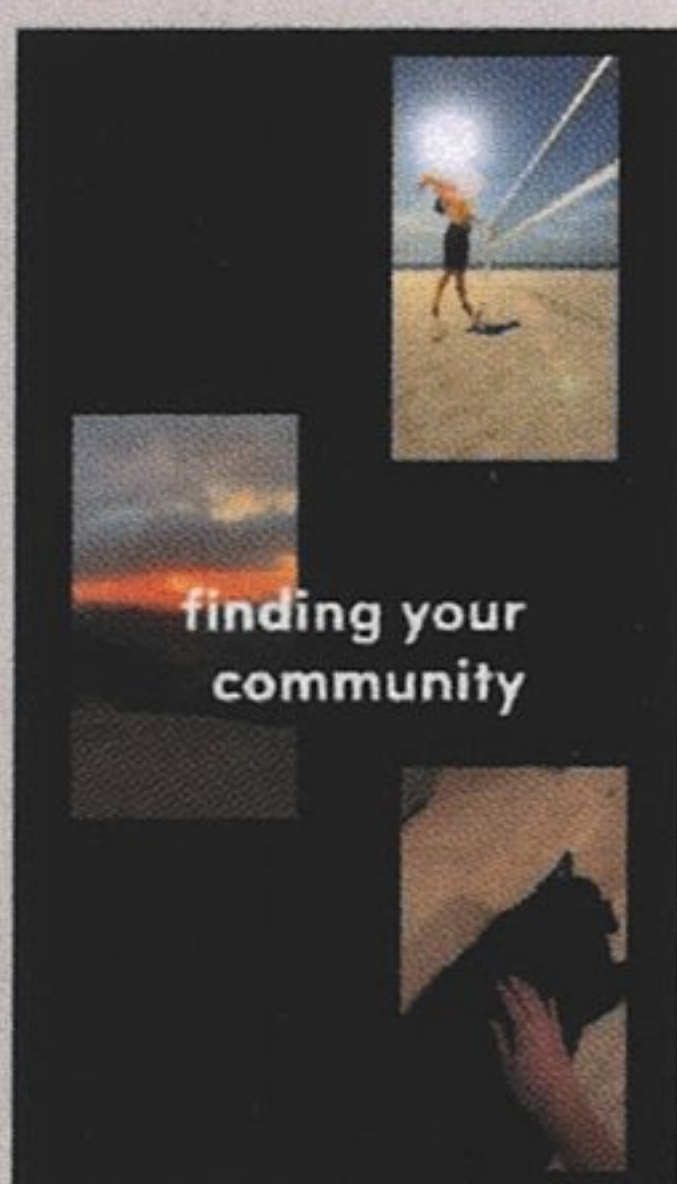

This year, the community discovered new ways to express their creativity, championed teams and the causes they care about, and found new favourites – from recipes to new music and ways to clean the house. Across the world they saw creators rise to stardom, while content from big little communities like #BookTok, #AnimalTok and #ScienceTok found a home on the platform.

TikTok competes with giants like YouTube, Instagram, and Facebook and is ranked 7th ahead of social network sites such as LinkedIn, Twitter, Pinterest, and Snapchat. Outside of China, users of the app were averaging up to 28 minutes per day on TikTok.

What helps TikTok stand out among its competition is that it's more of an entertainment platform, instead of a lifestyle platform. The idea that practically anyone can become a content provider because of the simplicity of use, is what makes TikTok so attractive across the globe. It appeals to content creators, and that is why they are exploring ways to improve their growth.

Communities on Tiktok

Something for everyone

1. #BookTok
2. #SportTok
3. #LearnOnTikTok
4. #BeautyTok
5. #NatureTok
6. #IndigenousTok
7. #ScienceTok
8. #AnimalTok
9. #WinterTok
10. #cottagecore

Whatever you're interested in, whether it's #CareerTok or #WitchTok, on TikTok you can find and connect with a community that shares your passion. This year, some of the popular communities focused on pets, sports and education. Find out more about the communities on the rise this year.

When you have a niche community of people, you have a shared bond. There's an overwhelming feeling of belonging and connectedness.

GOODBYES, Retirements &

Mr. P. Caramida

The staff and students at Westview would like to express a heartfelt thank you to Mr. Paul Caramida. Although, Mr. Caramida's official role at the school was the Head of Student Success, he went above and beyond his role, and, for that, we are truly grateful. Mr. Caramida's leadership and involvement helped to support many school initiatives including Student Council, Indoor/Outdoor Soccer, and the Prom Committee. He also took an active role in starting the Taylor Hannah Architect and One Life Meals Scholarships. His support of the Administration at Westview has now culminated into a new role as Vice Principal at Weston Collegiate Institute. Mr. Caramida's kindness, compassion, and open-door policy led Westview students and staff to gravitate towards him for support and encouragement. We congratulate Mr. Caramida on his new role, and we wish him success!

Ms. K. Lorenzi

The Westview family would like to acknowledge Ms. Karen Lorinczi for her care, dedication, creativity, and leadership in our school. In her role as Vice Principal for four years, she fostered a community of friendship and support. She was instrumental in many Westview initiatives, such as Black Student Success and Excellence (BSSE), Critical Consciousness Collective (CCC), and Female Identifying Group. Her leadership centered on equity and inclusivity, and she made lasting connections with students and staff. Her encouragement of new teachers and aspiring leaders was truly impactful towards Westview's growth. Big thank you!

Ms. N. Walker

As I crane my neck through my rear-view mirror to watch the last vestige of my teaching career disappear around the bend, I am reminded that not so long ago this date 2022 had seemed like something out of a sci-fi movie. To my colleagues at Westview I say, your Sci-fi moment will be here sooner than you think. Ensure that you are ready for that day. Take care of yourselves physically and mentally a broken teacher is no good to self or students. Make time each day to laugh and exercise, this will keep you fit and lengthen your life. To the students at Westview I say, you have caring teachers but they can't do it by themselves. You must be present and punctual every day. Engage in and be responsible for your own education. Westview, you can do it. You can have student success. Finally, thank you for the many moments I have spent with you, some happy, some exciting, some frustrating, but all have helped to keep me rooted and grounded. Many thanks!

Years of Service

Ms. S. D'Addamio

In the fall of 2021 Ms. D'Addamio was recognized for her twenty-five years of service. Congratulations Ms. D'Addamio!
